THE Political Pot

Mayor Claude Harrison today threw his support behind Social Credit candidate Percy Wright, assistant city clerk.

Mr. Wright was nominated to contest one of three Victoria seats at a Socred nominating convention at the Crystal Garden Monday night.

The mayor who had been considered a Socred candidate earlier, said this morning he's glad to see Mr. Wright get the nomination.

"He's a respectable young man without the back-biting, mud-throwing characteristics of some politicians," said Mayor Harrison.

"I hope he's elected. It looks to me like a new era in politics. People will use their intelligence and think things out without being rude and sarcastic to one another. There will not be the same venting of personal spleen."

Rumors are still persisting that Mayor Harrison may run as an independent candidate. But the mayor is remaining silent, and his statement supporting Mr. Wright seems to make the possibility remote.

Another keenly contested Social Credit nomination is shaping up in Esquimalt where William Chant, now a city candidate, was unsuccessful last year.

One hopeful already has announced he will seek the nomination, and there are three other "possibles."

William Falk, 390 Atkins Road, president of the View Royal SC group, definitely has his hat in the ring.

Others being mentioned as candidates are S. W. Findlay, Colwood electrical contractor; James Doran of Luxton, and Herbert Bruche, civil servant.

Esquimalt Socreds will choose their candidate Friday at 7.30 p.m. at Colwood Hall.

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele today squelched rumors he may seek the nomination.

"I'm not interested in the provincial field," he said.

Percy Wright, city Socred nominee, received the nomination on the day he started his 23rd year with the city.

New Tory candidate in Saanich, Mrs. Norah Lindsay, plans to take voters for a ride—a hayride during the campaign.

Sooke CCF Association will hold a banquet in the Community Hall at 6.30 p.m. Saturday.

Frank Mitchell, CCF candidate, will attend. Speakers will be Frank Snowsell, Saanich MLA in the last legislature, and Robert McIntosh, federal CCF candidate in the new riding of Esquimalt-Saanich.

* * *

Oak Bay Socreds will hold their nominating convention at 8 p.m. April 24 at St. Mary's Hall, Yale Street. Finance Minister Einar Gunderson, Similkameen member, is top choice.

* * *

W. H. Murray, Prince Rupert hotel operator, is the Socred candidate in Prince Rupert.

Socred candidate last year was Arthur Murray who is no relation to the new nominee.

* * *

Tom Uphill, veteran Labor MLA from Fernie, elected to the House first in 1920, has been nominated to extend his record.

The 78-year-old Fernie mayor has won re-election eight times. He received the unanimous endorsation of a Labor meeting at Fernie.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks has been re-nominated to contest the Dewdney riding.

2 More Homes, Hall Fired In Kootenays

Fire Raiders Hit Glade, Appledale In Pre-Dawn Strike Today

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Fire-raiding terrorists added two Doukhobor homes and a community hall to their list of burnings in the West Kootenays early today. Thirteen other homes were destroyed Sunday.

The new arson attacks took place at Glade, midway between Castlegar and Nelson, and at Appledale, where a community hall was destroyed.

Appledale is 50 miles northwest of Nelson and the scene of week-end fires when three houses, all occupied by Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, were destroyed.

PRE-DAWN ATTACK

The arsonists struck before dawn, and while the householders were asleep. All escaped without injury, police reported.

The new reign of terrorism in the Kootenays started two weeks ago when railway tracks were bombed and power lines dynamited.

In a daring night raid Sunday, terrorists put the torch to 13 homes in the Kootenays and observers fear a general Doukhobor insurrection may be close at hand.

The radicals blamed non-Doukhobors for the latest troubles, which began with the bombing of rail lines two weeks ago.

Meanwhile, it was reported here Monday night that Peter Swetlishoff, near death in the B.C. penitentiary as the result of a 32-day fast, may soon be released to thwart any move by the Sons of Freedom to make him a martyr.

Swetlishoff, convicted of taking part in terrorist raids in 1949, was sentenced to three months in prison in February, 1950, but has refused to accept his freedom since his term expired. During the three years he is reported to have fasted frequently.

Now his brother, William, plans to place him in the care of a Russian faith-healer in the Fraser Valley. The brother said Swetlishoff is too weak from his fasting to exercise any judgment.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said here today that he expects to be able to make an announcement on the general Doukhobor question after study of a special report being prepared by the RCMP and members of the Doukhobor consultative committee.

In addition to reporting on week-end uprisings, the committee members will inform the attorney-general of the Doukhobors' reaction to a plan for relocation in Costa Rica in South America.

Mr. Bonner said he does not plan sending further police into the area "at the moment" because reinforcements were stationed there two months ago "in anticipation of trouble."

Allied Planes Guard Convoy Of Sick PWs

First UN Troops Start Trip Back

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Allied planes flew guard today over the route of the first Red motor convoy carrying sick and wounded UN war prisoners slowly toward freedom.

An air force spokesman said the air sentinels and special secret precautions made a mistake bombing virtually impossible.

The reconnaissance planes patrolled through the day over thick clouds hiding North Korean roads. The Reds said the 20-vehicle convoy was the first to start the long trip from North Korean prison camps to Panmunjom, where 600 Allied POWs, including at least one Canadian, will be traded for 5,800 Chinese and Communists beginning Monday.

Two more convoys were to leave North Korea Wednesday at daybreak.

The UN probably will start moving its 700 Chinese and 5,100 North Korean sick and wounded by train this week-end.

A South Korean defense ministry spokesman said the 450 South Koreans being returned will have to be "reindoctrinated" possibly for six months to free them from any effects of Communist teachings.

The Communists here, meanwhile, awaited a UN reply to their latest request for resumption of full-scale truce negotiations at Panmunjom.

There was no indication when Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far East commander, would answer. He had told the Reds earlier that a renewal is the "second order of business" to the disabled POWs exchange.

Snow at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — More than eight inches of snow has fallen on Winnipeg overnight and today. More than five inches had fallen up to 6.30 a.m., CST. A further fall of three inches since then boosted the total to about 8.2 inches, heaviest fall of the year. Some melting occurred late in the morning, leaving only about four to five inches on the ground.

Milk Price Reduction By May 1 Unlikely

The provincial government has temporarily set aside its plan to remove milk controls above the producer level on May 1, according to an official of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association.

The spokesman for the association said he had been informed today that the government intended to give the matter further study before carrying out its plans to remove the controls.

"It is unlikely that any action will be taken to remove the controls until after the provincial elections," he said. "This was indicated to me today by government officials."

This means that Safeway and other chain stores will not be able to reduce the price of milk by one or two cents, he said. "They cannot do anything until the price is decontrolled by the government."

Several other dairymen in the Victoria area said they did not expect the government to decontrol the price of milk.

(See story, page 13, on reduced milk price question.)

SECOND LIQUOR STORE TO STAY OPEN NIGHTS

A second night liquor store will be opened Friday in Victoria, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

The city's Humboldt Street liquor store, near the Empress Hotel, will be open until 11 p.m., along with the Johnson Street store.

Similarly in Vancouver a second store will be opened at night at Hastings and Main.

Complaints about traffic congestion in both cities in the vicinity of the night stores prompted the wider service.

It will necessitate doubling of staffs in both stores, Mr. Bonner said.

The Attorney-General said he has received reports that the "owl stores" have cut into the bootleggers' business considerably.

U.K. TAXES CUT IN NEW BUDGET

Commons Cheers Butler's 'Incentive' Program; May Take Sugar Off Ration

LONDON (CP)—Britain today reduced income taxes on many consumer items in a sugar-coated "incentive" budget that even promised the end of sugar rationing soon.

The chancellor of the exchequer, Richard Butler, announced the reductions, most of them effective immediately, to a crowded House of Commons.

To prolonged government cheers, he said: "We step out of the confines of restriction to the almost forgotten but beckoning prospect of freer endeavor and greater rewards for everyone."

In a budget showing that for the first time since the war Britons will be free from new taxes for the coming fiscal year, Butler announced a cut in the standard rate of income tax.

The standard rate of income tax—at present nine shillings and six pence in the pound after all allowances—will be reduced by sixpence in the pound.

The income tax cut will cost the treasury £73,000,000, Butler estimated.

The budget reduced by 25 per cent the purchase tax on a wide range of consumer goods including cars, refrigerators, washing machines and other household articles. This tax now varies from 33⅓ per cent to 100 per cent.

The 30-per-cent excess profits tax on industry will be ended Jan. 1.

To encourage modernization and expansion of industry, Butler reinstated tax rebates for business men who use their profits to improve their capital assets.

From now on firms will be able to get tax rebates of 20 per cent of the cost of new machinery, 10 per cent of the cost of new roads and buildings and 40 per cent of the costs of new mines.

Butler estimated the total reduction of taxation would cost the treasury £169,000,000.

The entertainment tax on cricket was abolished.

Budgets Surplus £279 Million

In contrast with the 1951-52 fiscal year when Britain recorded an over-all deficit of £436,000,000, Butler this year budgetted for a surplus of £279,000,000.

One more form of relief for hard-pressed Britons was forecast by the chancellor when he said that the government soon will be able to end sugar rationing.

Cheers greeted the chancellor's optimistic statement as he opened his speech.

He said the story at last year's budget was a bleak one of mounting trade deficit overseas and of inflation at home. Today's was different.

He said that Britain's national economy has pulled itself up from a trade deficit with the rest of the world of £398,000,000 ($1,114,400,000) in 1951 to a surplus in 1952 of £291,000,000.

This, Butler declared, came close to his goal of a surplus of £300,000,000.

"When I opened my first budget some 13 months ago I began, as is customary, with a review of the previous year," he said.

"The account I gave, which was as objective as I could make it, was inevitably a bleak one—a story of mounting deficit overseas and of inflation at home.

"The difference today is very striking."

Butler said he is not content with this improvement.

"We must keep up the progress. We must not forget that last year we were helped by U.S. defense aid. We received £120,000,000 and we are very grateful for it."

Seen in Gold, Dollar Reserves

Britain's improved financial position is reflected in the sterling area's gold and dollar reserves. These reserves are the backing for the sterling area's trade with the dollar world. The sterling area includes Britain and her Commonwealth and Empire, except Canada, and a few other countries with currency linked to the pound.

Butler said that at the end of March the sterling area's gold and dollar reserves stood at £774,000,000 ($2,167,000,000). That represented an improvement over the last 12 months of £167,000,000 ($467,600,000).

"This is an achievement of which Britain can be proud," the chancellor said.

Butler estimated total government expenditure for the 1953-54 financial year at £4,259,000,000 ($11,925,200,000) — an increase of £108,000,000,000 over the 1952-53 figure. He estimated revenue at £4,538,000,000, an increase of £99,000,000.

The chancellor said the food ministry has arranged to buy 1,000,000 tons of surplus Cuban sugar "at an advantageous price."

"Our purpose is to end sugar rationing and we shall now be able to do that soon," he declared.

Recovered from her nervous breakdown on a Hollywood set several weeks ago, Vivien Leigh is planning an appearance on the London stage with her husband, Sir Laurence Olivier, in a comedy, "The Sleeping Princess."

NEGROES ASK HELP

Police Investigate Ontario Burnings

CHATHAM, Ont. (BUP) — Police are investigating the mysterious burning of a home in the Negro village of North Buxton, 10 miles southwest of Chatham. Police also are watching two more homes that may be "marked" for destruction.

The investigation was started after a delegation from the predominantly Negro village told police a home was set afire Saturday night after a crude wooden cross was erected in front of the house and set afire.

Two other homes in the village have had similar fiery crosses placed in front of them. The crosses are a mark of anti-Negro or Ku Klux Klan activity in some parts of the United States.

The house destroyed last Saturday was empty of its two families. The owner, Mrs. Cecile Rhue, says she can't understand how the fire could start accidentally because no stove was lighted and the house is not equipped with electrical wiring.

Kinda looks like las' night's Socred convention nominated three candidates for th' Provincial Legislature an' two fer th' Victoria mayoralty.

21 Believed Alive in DC3 After Crash

New Commander

Today at Seoul, Brig. Jean Victor Allard of Nicolet, Que., arrived to assume command of Canada's 25th Infantry Brigade in Korea. He was met at Seoul by Brig. M. P. Bogart of Toronto, his predecessor in command. The actual turnover of command is scheduled for next Monday.

Helicopter Lifts Survivors Out of Rugged Cascades

SEATTLE (AP)—A chartered airliner that vanished before dawn today on a flight to Seattle with 22 soldiers and a crew of three was found smashed in the Cascade foothills and helicopters immediately started the rescue of survivors.

Two were picked up in the first hour. How many others there might be was not known, but one of the rescued said he knew only of four dead.

Earlier an air search team reported one person, believed to be the stewardess of the plane, walked down the snow-covered hillside. She was the only woman aboard the Miami Airline DC-3.

The crash scene was at the 3,000-foot level, about 10 miles east of the village of Selleck, which was the co-ordinating centre for the search. It is 40 miles southeast of Seattle.

The twin-engine carrier, operated by Miami Airline, Inc., of Florida, was bringing military passengers to Seattle on a special charter flight.

Most of the soldiers were believed to be heading overseas. Soldiers flying to Seattle normally are making a quick hop to catch a troopship after staying home as long as possible.

The plane was believed to have cleared the rugged Cascade range—where a foot of new snow was reported overnight.

A large concentration of aircraft scoured Stampede Pass, about 60 miles southeast of Seattle.

A cryptic message at 2.07 a.m. from the pilot said the plane was losing altitude and was down to 4,500 feet.

The final radio report was at 2.22 a.m. The pilot was uncertain of his position.

The coast guard said the plane's final report indicated it was icing up, but not seriously. It had been making 140 miles an hour before the engine failure.

More than a dozen planes were in the search of the vast area northeastward from the Mount Rainier region.

1 Killed as Troops End Tehran Riot

TEHRAN, Iran (CP) — One man was reported killed and 20 others were injured today when troops with fixed bayonets broke up demonstrations in various parts of the capital over Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's attempts to wrest control of the army from the Shah.

At least 60 persons were arrested.

The Majlis—lower house of parliament—failed by one member to raise a quorum and thus delayed until Thursday any legislative action on Mossadegh's proposal to curb the powers of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, including army control.

An atmosphere of explosive excitement gripped the city after an announcement by a group of army officers Monday night threatening an army revolt to protect the monarchy.

The crowds defied a military ban on demonstrations. They included supporters of both Mossadegh and the Shah.

Six Die in New Mau Mau Outbreak

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Fanatic Mau Mau tribesmen killed four white men and two African policemen Monday night in this terrorist-plagued British East African colony.

The four whites, members of the Kenya Regiment, were killed when a gang of about 100 from the blood-bath secret society attacked a platoon in the Fort Hall district.

A gang of 12 Mau Maus shot the African policemen to death at a roadblock they were operating near Nairobi.

Ex-American Soldier Admits Spy Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kurt Ponger, Austrian-born former American soldier, pleaded guilty today to conspiring to spy on U.S. defense secrets for Russia.

Ponger, 39, entered his plea 24 hours after Otto Verber, his co-defendant and brother-in-law, pleaded guilty to the spy conspiracy.

Peron Arrests 500 Merchants In Buenos Aires

Charged With Price Violations

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UP) — More than 500 merchants charged with violating the Peron government's new price-freeze regulations were under arrest today, and it was announced that others were being rounded up in the provinces.

It was announced also that four slaughter houses had been closed for operating illegally.

An official statement said that five persons, including two women, had been arrested in the province as "rumor mongers" or violent critics of the government.

Nearly complete returns indicated a landslide victory for the government of President Juan D. Peron in elections for local officials in President Peron province.

Rabies in Cat

CALGARY (CP) — Rabies has been confirmed in a domestic cat at Keg River, federal veterinary officials said here Monday. A specimen was sent to the Lethbridge laboratory after the cat died.

The cat is believed to have been bitten by an infected wild animal in the area 350 miles northwest of Edmonton.

Claxton Says Defense Program on Target

Defense Minister Says Obligations to NATO Will Be Met on Time; Pearkes Concerned

OTTAWA (CP) — Defense Minister Claxton predicted today that Canadian defense production is going to be deliberately stretched out or extended over a longer period than once planned.

But he also predicted that the three-year defense program he enunciated in February, 1951, will largely be fulfilled by a target date he set as June 30, 1954, and that all Canada's obligations to the North Atlantic alliance in Europe will be met on schedule.

This version of the defense effort, given to the Commons at the opening of a military debate, wasn't shared by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, PC-Nanaimo. Before the noon adjournment halted him, he said the "rate of achievement" of the defense program is giving his party "considerable concern" and that the naval program has "slipped badly."

Mr. Claxton said it is possible for the Atlantic Pact powers to "moderate" their efforts but that any fundamental change in their drive to build up Western strength would be dangerous.

He said the defense department has largely completed stockpiling of "soft goods"—personal items such as boots, uniforms, forks, neckties—and predicted that the goals for "hard goods"—guns, tanks, ammunition—will be met "except insofar as we stretch out our program" to maintain productive capacity.

"I believe," he said, "that will prove desirable."

Such a step would allow productive facilities to be kept going. The alternative would be to keep producing until stockpiling requirements were met and then shut down.

Gen. Pearkes said the results of the $5,500,000 defense program in actual fighting men and materials were "meagre and in no way proportionate" to the large sums voted for rearmament.

COMMONWEALTH BACK IN ACTION

Bitter Hand-to-Hand Fighting As British Troops Flee Red Trap

WESTERN FRONT (BUP)—A British Commonwealth Division patrol battled its way out of a Communist trap early today carrying its wounded and dead.

The fierce, one-hour grenade and rifle battle was the biggest action the Commonwealth unit has faced since it returned to the western front April 6 after two months in reserve for rest and training.

Return of the Commonwealth division to the front was announced today.

The outnumbered patrol, drawn from the First Battalion of the King's Regiment (Liverpool) was encircled by nearly 50 Chinese at 3 a.m.

During the close battle, the wounded patrol leader yelled to his radio operator to signal for artillery support. But his radio man was helpless, bleeding from his own wounds.

The officer told his men to charge out of the encirclement in a desperate bid to save the patrol from destruction.

A corporal, a finger blown off by a grenade, fought his way out while helping a wounded buddy. When he reached safety the corporal pulled off his armored vest, only to find another wound in his chest.

One Commonwealth soldier was knocked unconscious by a grenade. When he came to, a Chinese was bent over him.

But just as the Communist started to slip off the wounded man's armored vest, a Red officer called him away.

One British soldier fired several hundred bullets from his machine gun until a Chinese grenade exploded in front of him, ripping the gun barrel to pieces.

The British Commonwealth Division had been in the line continuously since it was formed, the first unit of its kind in British history, in August, 1951.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

RADIO REACTIONS

A FEW MINUTES AGO, just as I sat down to write this column, the telephone rang and a voice enquired: "Would you please tell me what radio program you are listening to?" I replied, "None," whereupon the enquirer hung up.

Evidently that enquiry was part of a radio survey to assess the number of listeners to various programs. Under the circumstances my contribution to the survey was valueless, but I wish the unknown voice had asked me, instead, as to what I thought of certain programs. I could have given her "an earful," as the saying goes.

SOAP OPERA AGONIES

For instance, take the so-called soap operas, that have just been the subject of discussion by the House of Commons broadcasting committee. Mr. Coldwell condemned the day-time radio serials as morbid and depressing, a description in which I heartily concur if all such serials happen to be like the one that is on the air just before the BBC news every morning.

Never yet have I heard, in that particular soap opera—which seems to go on "ad infinitum," by the way—anything but grief and woe, family feuds and frustration. True, I have never listened to the whole of the 15 minutes, or whatever it is, but it invariably ends in uninhibited misery for all concerned.

PREVENTS DIVORCE?

If we are to believe Mr. Dunton, chairman of the CBC board of governors, Canadian women just lap up that sort of stuff and like it very much. He reasoned that soap operas provide a good emotional outlet for housewives. It was even suggested that there would be many more divorces if it weren't for the emotion-ridden series.

Well, well, well! I have come to the conclusion, after reading his observations, that there must be something radically wrong with me. If the married state were really as rueful an ordeal, if married life were really such a constant state of contention and tension, quarrelling and questioning, as that particular serial sets it out to be, I would give Mr. Punch's famous advice to those about to get married—"'Don't!"

LOVE AND LAUGHTER

But it isn't. Between the average married couple there may be brief periods when they don't agree, but those periods are punctuated with love and laughter, harmony and happiness. The radio serial picture of married life as a constant conflict, a continuing recurrence of strain and stress, restricted to recriminations and bitter bickering, while it may keep some morbidly inclined people hanging on waiting for the next sorry instalment, is doing a disservice to the great and tried institution of matrimony.

And it seems to me a pity that such cleansing, hygienic products as soap and deturgents cannot be dedicated to something a little healthier in the shape of human relations.

PURPLE PLUSH PELLETS

While on the subject of radio programs, I cannot refrain from touching briefly another of radio's—to me—great mysteries. That is the studio applause which greets situations and sallies that, to the unseen listener, so often sound infantile, to say the least.

One can only assume that the comedians responsible must look much funnier than they sound. Or could it be that the studio audience is merely reacting to the mimed exhortations of a kind of psychological cheer-leader who "peps" them up with signs ordering them to laugh or applaud at a given signal—all in the interest of "Pansy's Purple Plush Pills" or some other commercial sponsorship? It could be.

Duncan Council Holds Tax Down to Same as Last Year

(Special to The Times)

DUNCAN—Budget day, Monday, saw the tax line held undented when council slashed the general rate one and a half mills in order to compensate for increased school costs. The mill rate is the same as 1952-56.

Further requests received for extraordinary school board expenditure were rejected by council with the request that the school board place its demands before ratepayers in by-law form.

"I do not recommend that this council change its mind on the school demand at this time," said Mayor J. C. Wragg. "Let the board go to the people as the council has to do if it wants to make any extraordinary expenditure."

Apportionment of taxes, with 1952 rates in brackets, follows: general, 11.65 mills (13.07); school, 37.76 (36.59); debt, 6.61 (6.34).

Elimination of a new streets program for the first time in five years also helped to prevent a tax increase this year.

Calgary Sex Slaying Still Baffles Law

CALGARY (CP)—City Council Monday raised to $5,000 the amount of reward offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Mrs. Geaharda Middlestadt.

Mrs. Middlestadt was the victim of a brutal sex slaying March 7 and all leads to the murderer have so far proved unsuccessful.

Ray's Sobbing Priced Too High, Says Cleric

ELSED, Eng. (BUP) — A clergyman is complaining that Jonny Ray earned more money in two weeks of sob singing in Britain than a British farmer can earn in 40 years.

"'Something has gone wrong with our sense of values when we are willing to pay such a person in a fortnight a salary it would take a farmworker 40 years to earn," the Reverend Frank Parkhouse wrote in a leaflet distributed in his parish at Elsed.

Ray received $31,000 for his two weeks of theatre appearances.

Saanich Housewife Wins Tory Nomination

Mere males were ousted by the fair sex at a Saanich Progressive Conservative Association nominating convention at Lake Hill Monday night.

Mrs. Norah G. Lindsay, 920 Tattersall Drive, 35-year-old housewife and mother of two, captured the nomination from two other candidates, Sqdn. Ldr. Clarence Goode of Sidney and Major Herbert Forster, 1540 Broadmead Avenue.

In the June 9 election campaign Mrs. Lindsay, who is president of the Saanich Women's PC Association, will be pitted against CCF-er Frank Snowsell, Liberal Arthur Ash and Socred John Tisdalle.

Seventy delegates, including a strong contingent of women, cheered Mrs. Lindsay's election.

She plunged into politics with an air of confidence. She decided the day before the convention to allow her name to stand.

"I believe a Conservative government is the only one which will give each and every one, regardless of race, religion or position in life, the opportunity to live our lives and pursue our individual goals in a secure and unprejudiced atmosphere," she said.

MRS. NORAH LINDSAY

Mrs. Lindsay is a native of Calgary, Alberta, and came to Saanich in 1938. She married here seven years ago.

The candidate's campaign will include some fun-making.

"There'll be a hayride in June," she promised.

Noted Dog Breeder, J. F. O. Wood Passes

Funeral services will be held Wednesday for John Francis Overland Wood, proprietor of Quandalla Kennels, who died Sunday at his home on Atkins Road. He was 53.

Mr. Wood was well known in the tracking business here, having founded the Malahat Freight, which later became Island Freight Service. He served 18 years with the transport company before devoting his full time to the care and raising of dogs.

He is survived by his wife, Annie.

The Wednesday service will be held at McCall's Funeral Home at 3.30. Rev. H. J. Jones will officiate. Interment will be at Colwood Burial Park.

Heifetz Rebuked For Playing Strauss

TEL AVIV, Israel (UP)—Violinist Jascha Heifetz today ignored a newspaper editorial rebuking him for playing music that had been banned here for 20 years.

Heifetz was criticized by the afternoon newspaper Maarvi Monday for playing a sonata by the late German composer Richard Strauss in concerts here and at Haifa.

The music of Strauss and other German composers had been outlawed because Jewish music had been forbidden in Germany during the Nazi regime.

Navy, Army May Conduct Flag Ceremony

Nightly flag-lowering ceremonies on the lawns of the Legislative Buildings by navy and army color parties during summer months seemed almost assured at a Chamber of Commerce trade group meeting Monday.

Members Tom Denny and Courtney Haddock reported that the navy had tentatively agreed to sunset ceremonies on certain nights of the week and the army had offered co-operation on the other nights. Major H. Cuthbert Holmes advised the meeting that RCMP officials had promised four "mounties" would appear in "red felts."

It is hoped the evening displays will commence June 15.

Macy's 8,000 Workers Go Out on Strike

NEW YORK (UP) — Some 8,000 employees went on strike today against the world's largest department store.

Pickets appeared promptly at 12.01 a.m. at the huge Manhattan headquarters of R. H. Macy Company and four branch stores in suburban areas.

However, department store officials said all five stores would be "open for business today" and expressed hope that the strike might be settled during the day.

Publicity Bureau Draws Criticism from Hotelmen

A charge that the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau was not adequately fulfilling its duties was made Monday by Esquimalt hotel owner Sam Lane.

He told a luncheon meeting of the tourist trade group of the Chamber of Commerce that ". . . the bureau hides its pamphlets and folders behind the counter and is not allowed to give them out unless specifically asked."

He said the folders should be on view and readily available to the visiting tourists. Nearly 90,000 called at the Victoria bureau last year.

Chairman of the publicity bureau, Major H. Cuthbert Holmes said there was not sufficient space to display all the pamphlets, defended the efficiency of the bureau staff, who he described as doing a "magnificent job."

Scots Dance and Pipe With Ardor To Earn Funds for Nursing Home

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

The Scots were "on the town" Monday night when they filled every one of the 1,479 seats in the Royal Theatre for Adeline Duncan's Scottish revue of 1953.

They came to hear Scotland's "national instrument" played by experts and see the national dances performed by lads and lassies from four years and up.

If occasionally a very little dancer lost the step or wound up back to front, a shy smile immediately won the audience.

Pipe band of the 16th Canadian Scottish under Pipe-Major Andrew Pollock set the mood of the evening, proceeds of which will provide furnishings for a proposed new 100-bed Victoria Nursing Home on Gorge Road.

From wee "bluebells" like Tanis Troy and Mary Conrad to talented dancers Ronald Marrs and Heather Duncan, the 103 pupils of Mrs. Duncan had fun and relayed it to the audience.

Trimmer sailors than blonde Joy Russell, Joyce Clark, Sheena Laing, Violet Robertson and Heather Duncan would be hard to find, as they skipped through a toe-tapping "Shore Leave" number.

Three guest artists from Scotland provided some of the evening's highlights, as they lived up to their billing as top pipers and dancers.

They were Seumas McNeill, director of the civilian college of piping in Glasgow; John McLellan, pipe major 1st Seaforth Highlanders, now stationed in Germany, and James L. McKenzie, world's champion highland dancer.

Taking part in a gay "Reel o' Tulloch" were: Janet Klunck, Barbara Hodgson, Lorraine Grover, Heather McWilliams, Sally and Ann Noble, Rita Taylor, Ellen McLean, Jeannette Milligan, Flora Lowe, Linda Gordon, Lynn Williams, Doreen Beatty, Margaret Ann Ferguson, Valerie Broadley, Ann Bonnell, Susan Forrest, Alex Esslemont, Janie Carmichael, Linda Galley, Mary Grant, Teddy Contrad, Dennis Underwood and Beth Moyes.

John Dunbar, popular baritone, sang "Grannie's Highland Hame" and the "Sheep Shearing Song," while Mrs. W. H. Wilson, soprano, sang "Caller Herrin'."

Seen in "Lochaber Swords" number were: Mary Gibson, Jeannie Burns, Margaret Baird, Jocelyn Young, Edna Mae Dysart, Kathy Roberts, Lorraine Conway and Sally Noble.

Victoria Nursing Home Auxiliary sponsored the revue. Evelyn Clark's orchestra and Pipe Major Ian Duncan provided the music. Scenery was by Dolly Jones. Accompanist was G. H. Parker.

Suspected Gold Robber Nabbed

Man Arrested by FBI in Buffalo Wanted for $90,000 Sudbury Theft

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced today the arrest of one of the 10 most-wanted men on the list of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The man was identified as Harry W. C. Hedderson, 46.

Leonard Blaylock, agent in charge of the FBI's Buffalo office, said Canadian authorities want Hedderson in connection with the theft of $90,000 worth of gold at Sudbury, Ont., last May 29.

The specific federal charge against Hedderson is unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in California, Blaylock said. Hedderson is wanted in connection with at least three robberies in the San Bernardino area and four in San Francisco.

Hedderson was picked up early today in a Buffalo hotel. With him was a woman identified as Rita Giroux, 22, of Arnprior, Ont. She was charged with harboring a fugitive.

Blaylock declined to discuss how Hedderson's presence in Buffalo was discovered, except to say that he was "traced through investigation" here and in California.

Canadians Back in Korea Front Lines

Casualty List Tip-Off To Units' Position

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Censorship now permits reporting that the 1st Commonwealth Division, including Canadians, went back into the front lines the night of April 6 after two months in reserve.

Although the third battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, is still awaiting its first Korean assignment, the first battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, is back on familiar ground and the third battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, is beginning its second stint at the front, holding ground originally captured for the United Nations forces in September, 1951, by the regiment's second battalion and subsequently held by its first battalion.

Heavy shelling along the front during the early days of the takeover seems to have slackened and the Canadians now are concentrating on reconnaissance patrols "to get the form" of a front on which the Communists have become "extremely cocky" during the brigade's absence.

After developing a picture of Chinese fighting habits, the Canadians must start regaining mastery of no man's land where the Chinese have acquired the habit of roaming at will.

First tip-off that troops of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade were back in action came Monday from Ottawa in announcement of a casualty list reporting one man killed and one officer and two men wounded in action. All four were members of the first battalion, Royal 22nd.

The UN command put the first Commonwealth division, which includes the Canadian brigade, in reserve late in January. However, it was not until mid-March that censorship was lifted and the move unchanged.

The division now is back in the Imjin river line. It is occupying the same sector as before, a stretch of the river which includes strategic Hook ridge and Little Gibraltar hill.

Vancouver Mayor Would Mediate Lengthy Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Fred Hume of Vancouver Monday offered his services as mediator in the 57-day-old strike of 250 Vancouver and New Westminster grain handlers.

"I want to make an honest-to-God effort to settlement," he told reporters.

"The port of Vancouver must be opened for grain shipments. It has taken generations to build up this business and we can't run the risk of losing it."

Mayor Hume said he was available for the job of mediator immediately. There was no immediate comment from unions or operators' representatives.

Launch Paper for Canadians in U.K.

LONDON (CP) — Launching of the first Canadian newspaper ever published in Britain was announced Monday by K. R. Thomson, representing the Thomson group of newspapers.

The weekly, named Canada Review, will appear Wednesdays starting May 6. It is aimed especially at Canadians in Britain but will also be sold in key cities on the continent.

"This operation will provide a basis for our future expansion in newspaper publishing in Great Britain," said Thomson, managing director of the new publication and son of Roy H. Thomson, whose group publishes 18 Canadian daily and weekly newspapers, and a daily in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Socred Candidates Promise Clean Fight

COLD SHOULDER FOR TWO ALDERMEN

Socreds Select Civic Employee To Team With Tried Campaigners

A former Alberta agriculture minister, an ex-Alberta school teacher who studied under Aberhart and Victoria's own assistant city clerk will be Social Credit candidates in Victoria in the June 9 election.

William N. Chant, Mrs. Lydia Arsens and Percy Wright were chosen by 157 delegates from seven aspirants at a Victoria Social Credit League nominating convention at the Crystal Garden Monday night. More than 500 persons jammed into the ballroom.

The trio was nominated after three ballots were taken. The meeting started at 8.30 p.m. and concluded at 12.20 a.m.

Mr. Chant, who is president of the Victoria association, was an unsuccessful candidate in Esquimalt in last year's election. Mrs. Arsens, president of the Socred's women's auxiliary, was unsuccessful last year in the city, and Mr. Wright is a newcomer.

The convention rejected two city aldermen, Waldo Skillings, eliminated on the second ballot, and Donald Smith, ousted on the third ballot. Mr. Smith sought a Victoria seat on a Socred ticket last June.

Mayor Claude L. Harrison and Ald. Brent Murdoch, considered possible candidates, were not nominated. Ald. Murdoch was present as a candidate. It was rumored at the convention A. H. Bishop planned to nominate Ald. Murdoch. He went to the platform, waited his turn to speak, but changed his mind at the last minute. Later, he denied he'd been planning to nominate the alderman.

Two little known candidates, Archibald Browne, furniture company director, and T. V. Saunders, real estate man, were dropped after counting of the first ballot.

Another candidate, Byron H. Barker, Cumberland school teacher, was disqualified from the contest because he was not present.

Mr. Chant, 57, was "one of the first 20 people to hold a B.C. Social Credit card." He took over the presidency of the Victoria association last year and was credited with quieting dissension in the group.

Mr. Chant told the delegates he has been here five years. Victoria, he said, needs suitable highway outlets and he promised to work towards that objective.

He said Social Credit can defeat Socialism and Communism. The candidate recalled Russia's Molotov has been quoted as saying "Social Credit is the only concept Communism has to fear."

Mrs. Arsens, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria association and director of Zone Five (Beacon Hill area), said:

"Next to religion there isn't a greater movement in the world today than Social Credit."

She appealed to Socreds to "put your shoulder to the wheel and talk and pray Social Credit" in the election campaign.

Mr. Wright, who is 44 but looks 34, won the nomination on his first venture into politics.

"With the help of Almighty God I can win you a seat," he told delegates.

He is president of Socred Group 32 (northeast Victoria), first vice-president of the Victoria Socreds, charter secretary of the North Victoria Kiwanis Club, past secretary of Oaklands PTA, and past secretary of Toastmasters Club No. 38.

After his election Mr. Wright said he was as surprised as anyone, but said a determined effort by all Socreds would make the election "a cinch."

Opposition In New Move On 'Kickbacks'

Saskatchewan House Debates Amendment

REGINA (CP) — A second Opposition amendment to the Crown corporation committee's report on insurance commission "kickbacks" was introduced in the Saskatchewan Legislature Monday night following defeat of an earlier bid for a change in the report.

An opposition attempt to turn the investigation of the charges over to a judicial commission was defeated 34 to 9. CCF members opposed the amendment and the Liberal opposition supported it.

The opposition then moved a 15,000-word second amendment which declared Michael F. Allore, general manager of the Saskatchewan government insurance office, received "secret commissions" and that similar charges against Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines have "not been disproved."

The legislature debated this amendment during the night sitting but adjourned before a vote was taken.

The second amendment would reverse the decision set down in the Crown corporation committee report which said the charges against Mr. Fines and Mr. Allore were "wholly unwarranted and unfounded."

Both Principle and Practice

MUCH POLITICAL AMMUNITION no doubt will be made of the federal government's refusal to exempt municipalities from the payment of sales tax on machinery and other articles bought for their own use.

The Progressive Conservative and CCF arguments for the exemption were calculated to appeal to municipal councils and property owners throughout the land. But on analysis there is little sound reason for such a move, except to win votes in an election year. The government showed courage in resisting the proposal, and Mr. Abbott's reasons, given in the House, were based on principle as well as practical effect.

The debate was concerned with purchases by municipalities, rather than payment of tax on articles they make for their own use. The latter cases raise a different principle and have been opposed in these columns.

The finance minister, noting that he must impose taxes on the public in the course of his duties, voiced full sympathy for municipal authorities who are faced with the same seldom-appreciated task. But he noted that by relieving the municipalities of the purchase tax burden he would merely transfer the problem from their shoulders to his own. He would have to find an alternative source for the revenue so lost—and in the end the same citizens, of municipalities as well as of Canada, would have to pay. The actual burden to taxpayers would therefore be little changed, despite the protests of opposition speakers.

In addition, Mr. Abbott foresaw a whole new train of consequences arising from such a measure. The municipalities, as he pointed out, are "legal emanations of the provinces," and "I think it would be highly inappropriate for the federal government to assume any direct responsibility for the financial problems of municipalities." He held the proper channel for tax discussions to be with the provinces rather than with the minor governments, with the latter receiving benefits where possible through their relationships with their parent governments.

A practical difficulty in the proposed exemption would arise from the mechanics of handling it. As Mr. Abbott reminded the members, sales tax is imposed at the manufacturer's level, and it would be impossible at that stage to determine which products were ultimately to be sold to individuals and which to municipal corporations. With more than 4,000 Canadian municipalities involved, the paper work entailed in a refunding system would make administration a major problem.

These considerations were the background of the government's refusal. They may be lost sight of in the hurly-burly of a federal election campaign but they would remain no matter which party attempted to apply the proposal. The Progressive Conservatives and CCF no doubt will find a certain measure of relief in the realization that they will not be faced with the responsibilities of office and the necessity of implementing what they have so urgently advocated from the opposition benches.

Fighting a Vanished Dragon

DR. J. M. THOMAS, IN HIS REport as second vice-president of the provincial CCF, was merely stating the obvious in Vancouver last week when he drew the party's attention to the obsolete nature of some of its propaganda.

"The old picture of the owning-exploiting bloated capitalist versus the poverty-ridden, helpless wage slave proletariat is no longer a true picture," Dr. Thomas said. At another point he added: "Loud outcries of hatred against capitalism and 'ists' in a country such as . . . Canada, and unrealistic fulminations against the economic pattern of society, when such a protest is based on an obsolete concept as to the nature of society, is not a sign of intelligent understanding."

Dr. Thomas was not speaking from an old textbook. He was dealing with realities as they exist today. His were natural observations.

Under the circumstances the protests his report drew from other delegates cannot escape notice. Those objections unquestionably suggest the existence in the party of members who will not look at facts, who base the hopes of public appeal for their party on conditions which do not apply to this country, and who are asking other Canadians to support an attack on a dragon which largely belongs to mythology.

How wide this difference of opinion goes within the party itself can only be estimated. The episode in Vancouver, however, suggests a cleavage of which the electors of this province will take due note.

Mystery Partially Solved

SERIOUS MEMBERSHIP LOSSES of the Communist party in France (some estimates place the reduction at 50 per cent), accompanied by large-scale decreases in Communist newspaper subscription lists in that country have brought Maurice Thorez back to the scene.

Two years ago the French Red leader was flown to Russia for medical treatment following a stroke. Since that time silence had cloaked his whereabouts. He did not even appear among the officials at Stalin's funeral.

But at home the Soviet followers missed his guidance. Party fortunes declined under Jacques Duclos, strikes did not win the support it was hoped they would, the French citizen, at heart a patriot, took another look at what was happening in eastern Europe, and decided he did not like it.

Now Thorez has been sent back into the fray. Whether his more magnetic personality will recoup the Communists' fortunes remains to be seen. But his return apparently marks recognition that communism in France is slipping, that the western defence community, of which France is a key component, is becoming a force to be reckoned with, and that the aims and objects of Kremlin policy in that sphere are far from being achieved.

Mr. Thorez' story, if it ever were told, would be an interesting one. He must have received much more than medical attention while he was a guest of the Soviet. And his knowledge of the new party line now being unfolded no doubt would make headlines. The fact is, however, we are unlikely to receive his message directly in verbal form. Our only key to his two years' disappearance will come from his actions. Needless to say, these will have their constant scrutineers.

The Crusade Goes On

IN BEAUMONT, TEXAS, ONE OF the world's greatest women athletes has been told she has a malignant condition, undoubtedly cancer. Mildred "Babe" Didrikson Zaharias, the girl sensation of the 1932 Olympic Games and since then golf's outstanding woman competitor, is to undergo an operation which may correct her condition but will probably remove her from sport.

Because of the distinction gained by Mrs. Zaharias in physical skills, her international reputation in games, her case appears unusually tragic. It is, nevertheless, paralleled by scores of others in all walks of life. Cancer is no respecter of persons. It attacks the apparently physically fit as it does those of weaker condition.

Because cancer strikes so indiscriminately and so frequently, the crusade against it is a matter of concern for every individual.

That is the fact that should be recognized as the Canadian Cancer Society makes preparations for the campaign it will open in Victoria next Monday. An objective of $25,000 has been set for the community. Proceeds from the drive will go largely to the Canadian Cancer Institute for research and to treatment agencies here and in other parts of the province and Canada.

By generous donations the people of this community can give some measure of hope to those who, like "Babe" Didrikson Zaharias, are victims of the malignancy and some measure of protection to those who, unknown to themselves, face the possibility of cancer in the weeks, months and years ahead.

LOOSE ENDS

The Icicle of Cheddar

BY BRUCE HUTCHISON

CHEDDAR: In this homeland of a notable cheese and an even larger phenomenon they tell and generally believe a depressing story. Happily it is untrue.

Hutchison

An American tourist, the story goes, was being shown through the weird caves of Cheddar Gorge. He was informed that the dripping icicles of limestones were at least 50,000 years old and added a cubic inch to their bulk every 4,000 years.

Contemptuous of time, like all Americans, this gentleman remarked that he could work faster than nature. With a typically American sneer, he lifted his walking stick and broke the largest stalacite, causing a nasty local scandal and being fined £100 by the outraged magistrate.

The truth, I am assured by the guardian of the caves, is that the crime was committed by an Englishman. But the interesting and depressing fact is that a nauseous little piece of vandalism is generally attributed hereabouts to an American, because Americans are supposed to be that kind of people, and thus adds another speck of grit to the friction between two great nations.

CHEDDAR Gorge itself illustrates the problem of making these nations understand each other.

The trench through the Mendip hills is famous all over England and has been for centuries as a miracle of nature in her wildest mood. It is less than 600 feet deep and a couple of miles long. You could fold it into a small corner of the Fraser River canyon or into a thousand valleys of our Rockies and it wouldn't make a wrinkle. Yet the English consider it a prodigy of size, grandeur and shocking upheaval.

True, the gorge is very beautiful with its ivy-covered cliffs, its screaming rooks and the secret of its underground caverns. It is a tiny jewel, the caves a miniature of Dante's Inferno in vivid technicolor. In North America, however, (don't mention it aloud in Cheddar) the whole thing would be passed by any traveller with hardly a backward glance.

THE ENGLISH understand time. They proudly remember that cavemen lived here 12,000 years ago, as proved by their excavated skeletons and flint tools. Proud, too, that King John hunted in this district and built a hunting lodge in the neighboring village, where it still stands drunkenly in the crowded street; that Cromwell's rusty watch and a fragment of his spurs repose in a nearby inn; and that Toplady's original "Rock of Ages," the inspiration of his hymn, is a cleft in the hillside of Burington Combe where he sheltered from the storm nearly two centuries back.

Time is England's fourth and predominant dimension, maybe, its greatest asset.

THE North American is too young to understand time but he understands and can manipulate space. He feels crowded and oppressed by this minor gorge. In the apocryphal story (which contains an essential truth even if the facts are wrong) an American makes his gesture of contempt for time and proclaims his love of space.

Anyone talking to the natives of this village can see how little they grasp the space of North America, the supreme fact of our whole continental life. They have seen pictures of the Rockies, the Grand Canyon and the central plains, but their size is as meaningless as the cold surface of the moon.

What space does to the character of the North American, in impatience, irreverence, invention and ravenous energy, is quite incomprehensible.

THE failure of real communion between England and America—a fact thrust at you in every conversation—is at least partly attributable, I suspect, to the differing of physical dimensions of the old world and the new.

Time has bred the English character. Space, for good or ill, makes the North American what he is. For this and other reasons the two characters, old and new, are entirely different. They get on best when they recognize and accept the difference, instead of expecting each other to behave in the same fashion.

Nevertheless, the size of England is deceptive. It seems much larger than it is. From the window of the Garth Country hotel — surely the most comfortable, warmest and best-fed resort in England — I can look out over several counties and across the Bristol channel to Wales. I have seldom seen so much land at one time in Canada.

THE explanation, of course, is that the original wilderness of England has been cleared and almost every foot of soil plowed. Opened into rolling nakedness, England appears huge and illimitable, though you could fit it comfortably into a fragment of Ontario.

The work of England is the lapidary work of a skilled craftsman, lovingly concerned with the finest detail, shaping his fields, villages and houses as he might carve a diamond. The North American works with a broad and reckless brush, often with the machine tools of destruction.

AN ENGLISHMAN is deeply excited when he crawls about the cramped caverns of Cheddar to observe the jewel-like spectacle of the stalactites and stalagmites not three feet long. He willingly pays two shillings for admission and in the summer 2,000 people a day visit this limestone fairyland, incidentally helping to supply the heavy taxes of the Marquis of Bath, who owns it.

SUCH a minute and exquisite thing can hardly excite the North American, who has lived all his life among wonders much larger and often has removed obstructions 10 times the size of Cheddar Gorge entire.

Because the size and texture of America, and the people who take their own inner texture from it, are so completely misunderstood among ordinary Englishmen, an American is blamed, in the local legend, for callously lopping of an icicle 50,000 years old.

And thus when a Canadian, always taken at first for an American, announces his nationality, the faces of the Cheddar people light up with a warmer welcome. Canadians are not suspected of smashing the treasures of antiquity.

The Man Who Knew

BY JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP From Washington

THE best way to illustrate the real meaning of the retirement from government service of George S. Kennan is to go back to an incident which occurred in mid-summer, 1947. The Marshall Plan, which was to save Europe, was in the final incubation stage. A last, crucial question remained to be answered. Should the Soviet Union be invited to join the plan?

Joseph

Asking the Soviets to join presented certain very great political advantages abroad. Yet, if the Soviets accepted, they could wreck the plan from within. Secretary of State George Marshall was puzzled and disturbed. Finally he called on his chief policy planner, George Kennan, for advice. Without hesitation, Kennan advised Marshall to ask the Russians to join. There was not, he said, the slightest chance that they would do so.

Marshall decided to accept the risk—and the Kremlin's violent refusal and savage disciplining of the Soviet satellites helped to solidify the West.

There are many such examples of the extraordinary prescience which Kennan has repeatedly displayed. Kennan also warned Marshall and others, for instance, that a strong Soviet reaction to the Marshall Plan was inevitable—and he said that this reaction seemed to him very likely to take the form of a Soviet-engineered coup in Czechoslovakio. Precisely this soon ensued.

After the Inchon victory in Korea, as these reporters can personally attest, Kennan was almost wholly alone in predicting flatly that either the Russians or the Chinese Communists would intervene openly if the United Nations forces pressed close to the Sino-Soviet borders.

More recently, when Kennan was American Ambassador in Moscow last summer, he reported in cables to the State Department the existence of a powerful inner group in the Soviet government, which favored a major change in tactics toward the West. He outlined in substance precisely the change in tactics which the new Soviet regime has now introduced.

This ability to sense beforehand the course the Kremlin is likely to adopt is not mere crystal-gazing. It derives from a lifetime of experience and study. Perhaps Kennan's most enduring contribution was his brilliant analysis of the nature of the Soviet state, contained in his now famous 8,000 word cable from Moscow in 1946.

In his long cable, which he sent as charge d'affaires of the Moscow Embassy, Kennan warned that the Soviet government, "a conspiracy within a conspiracy," was "committed fanatically to the belief that there can be no permanent modus vivendi with the United States." He warned that this government wished to see "our traditional way of life destroyed," and that it would seize any "opportunity of extending Soviet power."

This cable, which is summarized in the Forrestal diaries, is one of the great state papers of our time.

In the State Department's announcement, it was implied that Kennan retired by his own wish. This is true as far as it goes, for Kennan, a quiet and contemplative man, is perfectly content to return to his studies and his writing. But it is only part of the truth. The whole truth is that Kennan would certainly have accepted a responsible post if one had been offered him—but none was offered.

With the bitter battle over Charles E. Bohlen fresh in their minds, it is no doubt natural that the administration leaders had no wish to repeat the experience. Yet the unequalled knowledge of the Soviet state and the intuitive brilliance of George Kennan are assets which the American government cannot replace at any price. And it will be a sad day when the expert non-political government servant must give his loyalty, not to the government which he serves, but to the political party he thinks most likely to win the next election.

As Our Readers See It

BIBLE READING

If, as Mr. Eekman writes, a Christian has no opinion on spiritual matters, how does it happen that there are some 250 different sects?

The reading of passages from the Scriptures in the schools is bound to be confusing to the pupils and divisive to their parents.

The separate school question will be once again a political issue in the coming provincial election. Since non-sectarian public schools are not acceptable to the Catholics and other religious bodies, I suggest that the Public School Act be amended so that the present practice of having readings from the Scriptures and the recitation of the Lord's Prayer be abolished.

It would seem since the non-sectarian schools have failed to bring harmony that it is a matter of either strictly secular public schools or separate schools. We cannot afford to have both financed from public revenues.

ANSWERS CRITICS

Letters appearing in the Victoria Daily Times of April 10, warning the voters of British Columbia against voting for Social Credit, are really amusing.

For instance, Mrs. G. A. Bennett would ask the voters what they knew about the monetary system of the Douglas Social Credit government—and what would happen to Canada if the Social Credit government came into power; questions which Mrs. Bennett then proceeds to answer herself, warning of dire and disastrous results if such came to pass.

Alberta has lived, and prospered, under 17 years of Social Credit government, and the people of Alberta are happy and well satisfied with their government. Alberta is in a better position now than any other province in Canada; if anyone doubts this statement—ask the people who live there.

I fully agree with Mrs. Bennett's last paragraph, wherein she writes: "Every voter should find out exactly what he or she is voting for before going to the polls," an excellent warning, to which I add, but make sure that your advisers know what they are talking about or writing about; also, think what has happened in the past under other governments in British Columbia, and review what the Social Credit government accomplished in British Columbia during its short term. Also, what they could, and would have accomplished if they had been given a working majority. The records are there for anyone to see. Go, see them, and judge for yourselves.

Replying to Mr. Armstrong's letter in the same issue, under the heading of "Horrors of Security," would like to say that a stable government does not mean a stagnant government.

A Further Note on Cuba

It seems to me that you have missed much of the point in your April 8 editorial "Technique in Cuba" and hence the objectivity which I feel your readers should receive from you. As a former resident of that republic and as a Canadian who did post graduate work in the University of Havana a few years ago, I would like to fill in some of the details at your discretion.

General Batista is not as bad as you and the "United Nations World" paint him. Cuba's real dictator and tyrant was Antonio Machado (in English Machado appropriately means "axe") and he was one of the worst dictators Latin America has produced. Since his overthrow one fall day in 1933, stimulated by the army and by what you call the "Sergeants' Revolution" in which Batista played a part, all Cuban presidencies have been attempts to find a "modus vivendi" in which the best government for the majority of Cubans can be had.

During the war, General Batista as president had an exemplary war record, declaring war on all three Axis totalitarian powers and dealing harshly with German spies in Cuba. As a matter of fact, Cuba declared war on Japan in December, 1941, even before the United States!

The influence of the University of Havana on Cuban political life has been strong. Under Machado, university students and professors formed an underground which was ruthlessly quelled. When I was in Cuba, Grau San Martin, head of the Department of Physiology, a scholar kindly and easy-going, was president of Cuba. But the professional politicians often ran circles around him. By 1949, the Ministry of Education in this small nation could not account for about $150,000,000 of public funds and the Cuban press openly called education officials "bandits."

Grau's successor didn't do much to end the loose spending of money which had gone on since the war. Not every Cuban liked Grau Martin. Not every Cuban likes Batista either. One of the reasons he took power so easily was because Cubans were fed up with the colossal mismanagement of the professional politician.

As for the high school professor and the 44 students who tried to incite revolt at Camp Columbia, this was as absurd an act as if a professor at Oak Bay High School for example and 44 of his students decided to take over Work Point Barracks because they had no use for the presiding Canadian government.

I lived near Camp Columbia, rarely a centre of trouble in Cuban politics and a well-run post. I know professors in the University of Havana who are fed up with the university's place in contemporary Cuban politics, and who themselves, though they will not support Batista, will also not support fellow university or high school professors who step out of line and amper with the national defenses of the republic in such a flagrant manner.

These professors feel that the University of Havana's goal is to give good administrators and lawyers to the nation who, in time, will give this stable people continuous stable and responsible government.

TRADE HUNTERS GET POINTERS

Flower Girls and Crumpet Men Urged as Frontdoor Atmosphere

English flower girls, "with a strong Cockney accent . . . and looking like Eliza," should meet every boat arriving at Victoria, the tourist trade group of Chamber of Commerce was told Monday.

Heavy emphasis on an "Old Country atmosphere" was promoted at the meeting by Mrs. Avis Walton. Eliza was the London flower girl in Shaw's "Pygmalion."

"Hot crumpet men should be ringing bells on the Causeway and there should be walnuts roasting on every corner," she added.

Mrs. Walton's suggestions followed a proposal by Courtney Haddock, Woodward store manager, that the tourist group should sponsor a daffodil festival here every spring. A committee will be set up by the group to study both a daffodil and a holly festival which would attract Christmas visitors.

Victoria's legitimate theatre was also offered the support of the tourist group. A committee will be set up to assist the York Theatre players and any other organization that adds to the tourist appeal of this city.

GOING IS ROUGH

"If we don't help them we may soon lose them," said Mr. Haddock. He intimated that the stage group are operating at a profit but that the going was rough. "I think they should be given some practical assistance to keep going," he added.

The Greater Victoria Arts Centre was mentioned as another tourist attraction that should receive the full support of the group.

Ian Ross of Butchart's gardens supported Mr. Haddock. He added that this year Butchart's gardens will be floodlit to accommodate evening visitors.

Public relations work by the B.C. Electric Company was praised by Mr. Haddock. But he complained that the CPR does little in that line.

"There is no organization which benefits more from the tourist trade here than the CPR," he said, "yet here they are without a representative at this meeting. They never seem to have anyone here."

A committee will be asked to approach the CPR on the matter.

Mexico Soon May Not Need Imported Wheat

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government said Mexico may not import wheat in 1954.

Officials said this year's crop will be about 500,000 tons, and if next season's crop shows an equal improvement there will be no need to buy wheat from Canada and the United States as in the past.

The government plans to make Mexico self-sufficient in wheat, of which she consumes about 800,000 tons annually.

Home Oil dropped $1.25 on light selling on Vancouver Stock exchange this forenoon, following release of the firm's report, which showed 1952 profit halved as compared with 1951. Noon-hour sales of Home were at $8.50.

Estella Mines rose to 59 in the mines section to regain all of Monday's loss. Estella closed at 52 yesterday afternoon.

Other changes in the Vancouver list were minor.

Calmont Oil was 1.65 at noon, unchanged from the opening. Charter Oil at 1.95 showed a three-cent decline. New Continental was unchanged at 1.32 and so were Yankee Princess, quoted at 97, and United 1.26.

American Standard, in the mining section, was 20, a two-point decline. Silver Standard also was off two, trading at $1. Pacific Nickel was unchanged at 1.11.

Canadian Western Lumber was $9.25, unchanged.

Western Oils Slip at Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Prices improved slightly from early lows toward the stock market's close today but continued weak.

A wide list of losses in steels led industrials lower and foods, liquors, banks, retail stores and manufacturing companies joined the decline.

Senior golds gained, led by Dome and Malartic. Juniors also showed a majority of small advances.

Higher-priced base metals slipped, prompted by weakness in Noranda.

Western oils losses outnumbered gains about six to one. Home, Okalta and Great Plains dropped. Calvan recorded one of the few small gains.

Home Oil Drops 95c at Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — The stock market was mixed in afternoon dealings today, with a slight tendency toward the downside.

Price changes in either direction were held to minor fractions with the exception of Noranda, dropping one point to 72½.

Steels and miscellaneous industrials edged lower. Papers, utilities, senior metals, senior oils and banks were mixed.

Mining prices remained in lower territory. Chimo and East Sullivan dropped 20 cents each while Dominion Asbestos was off 15.

Western oils were lower, led by Home Oil, falling 95 cents, and Phillips down 25.

London Prices Firm Despite Budget Day

LONDON (Reuters)—Despite the budget and settlement day operations, which combined to restrict activity, most sections of the stock market were firm today.

Gilt-edged issues showed rises throughout the list. Among industrials several small gains were widespread on hopes of taxation relief.

Commodity shares were quite good with rubbers and coppers coming in for fair support.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade was dull and showed little feature as prices generally closed slightly lower today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Flax showed the sharpest losses.

Routine domestic shipper purchases came out in oats and barley. Some buying by American interests in oats and rye was attributed to inter-market spreading. Flax attracted light seaboard and industrial demand.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat included: United Kingdom 665,000 bushels, Germany 300,000 and Yugoslavia 350,000.

Demand for Coal Will Increase, Not Decrease, Expert Predicts

EDMONTON (CP)—A study of Canadian energy sources suggests that the market for coal will remain close to its current level until 1965, then increase sharply during the next 10 year.

The report, by C. L. O'Brian of the Dominion coal board, says its findings sound "a clear warning that coal still remains a vital portion of our energy supply."

The study, presented at the annual meeting here of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, is patterned on the U.S. Paley report prepared for President Truman on "resources for freedom."

Discounting theories that demand for coal is receding, the study says that even if the most optimistic predictions for oil and gas production are achieved, the market for coal 12 years from now will be as great as it is today.

BIG BOOST POSSIBLE

At the same time, a proportionately moderate reduction in estimated production figures for oil and gas could lead to increased demand amounting to as much as 17,000,000 additional tons a year.

The study says it took into account "basic assumptions" roughly parallel to those used in the Paley report.

These included the assumption that the population of Canada will increase to 16,500,000 by 1965 and 18,000,000 by 1975; that there will be no general war in that period; that economic growth will continue close to the current level, and that there will be no big energy supply developed from atomic sources.

The study estimates that fuels needed to supply the energy required in 1965 will be 297,000,000 barrels of oil, 315,000,000 thousand cubic feet of natural gas, 116,200,000 thousand kilowatt hours of hydro electricity, 6,000,000 tons of lignite and sub-bituminous coal, and 37,000,000 tons of bituminous anthracite and coke.

The estimates of 1975 requirements are 356,240,000 barrels of oil, 400,000,000 thousand cubic feet of gas, 158,000,000 thousand kwh of hydro electricity, 8,000,000 tons of lignite and sub-bituminous coal, and 58,000,000 tons of bituminous anthracite and coke.

COAL ALWAYS NEEDED

"If the amounts estimated as possible production for gas and oil are attainable," the report says, "one clear deduction is possible and that is that even with these large increases in other fuels, there still remains a market for coal of about the present size up to 1965, after which the requirement will increase substantially.

"On the other hand, if the supply of oil and gas does not reach these levels, an increasing tonnage of coal and coke will be required. For example, a drop in the estimate oil supply in 1965 to 250,000,000 barrels would mean that 12,000,000 additional tons of coal would be required while a corresponding drop to 250,000,000 thousand cubic feet of gas would correspond to a further 5,000,000 tons of coal."

PRICE WAR THREATENS TV DEALERS

TORONTO (BUP)—Canadian television neared a milestone today while the industry brawled in a price-cutting war that threatened to spread and put many dealers out of business.

The milestone was in a new microwave TV network which would link Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa about May 1 in the first three-way hookup in Canada.

The brawl in the industry was concentrated in Ontario where appliance dealers were warned that the boom in TV set sales may bust if dealers continue to slash prices.

Today there are 150,000 TV sets in Ontario—one in each 10 homes.

Television sales executive G. H. Giles of Toronto said nearly every appliance dealer in Ontario was cutting prices to boost sales. He warned dealers to stick together and set standard prices or face a serious business lapse.

Giles said the price-slashing had confused the public and "ultimately no dealer" could hope to gain from the situation.

138 Merchants Favor Present Store Hours

Chamber's Quiz Reveals Widely Diverging Views

Chamber of Commerce tourist trade committee Monday afternoon juggled the hot potato of midweek store closing, then tossed it back to the Wednesday closing committee for study and, presumably, recommendation.

Results of the Chamber of Commerce questionnaire circulated recently among merchants were revealed by Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the joint tourist trade group and retail merchants' group committee.

He reported that 138 of the 378 who answered the quiz were in favor of the present system of closing stores on Wednesday afternoons.

Of this 133, a further 32 declared that they would favor allowing the tourist trade shops to remain open if they so wished on Wednesday afternoons between June 15 and September 15.

WOULD CLOSE ALL DAY

The remaining voters favored opposite ideas. Eighty-seven wanted to close all day Wednesday.

Sixty-seven wanted to remain open six days a week, staggering their staffs on a five-work-in, -day week.

These figures, he said, showed that while 28.6 per cent were in favor of no change, 71.4 per cent wanted alteration of some sort in the city's trading hours.

Mr. Edgelow was immediately challenged by Tom Denny, who claimed that the largest single vote was in favor of allowing the present store hours to continue.

He was supported by Courtney Haddock, who pointed out that the over-all majority wanted either Wednesday afternoon closing or all day Wednesday closing.

"I don't think 35.2 per cent is all conclusive," retorted G. Conway Parrott, chairman of the tourist trade group.

CLOSING FAVORED

"Sixty-six per cent of all those who voted favor either half-day or full-day closing on Wednesday," asserted Roy Denny.

Tony Lort then asked if merchants had availed themselves of the opportunity to make other suggestions about closing.

He was told many suggestions had been made. These are available for inspection at the Chamber of Commerce. It also was stated that more than 30 wished to change to Monday closing, thus providing a long week-end for owners and employees.

Motion to refer the report to the Wednesday closing committee for study was made by Roy Denny, and was carried with only two dissenting.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE STORE HOUR POLL RESULT

In favor of present regulations	133 or 35.2 per cent
In favor of opening six days with staffs staggered on five-day week	67 or 17.8 per cent
In favor all day Wednesday closing	87 or 21.4 per cent
In favor of allowing tourist trade shops to remain open Wednesday afternoons, June 15-Sept. 15	97 or 25.6 per cent

In addition 32 of those who favored existing regulations favored allowing the tourist shops to remain open.

Mr. Edgelow said that 245 or 64.8 per cent of those who voted wanted changes while 133 or 35.2 per cent did not.

The number of ballots sent out was 550, of which 378 replied.

Canada Finances Own Future

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadians are assuring their country's independence by investing in Canadian enterprises, Graham Towers said here Monday.

The governor of the Bank of Canada added that far more Canadian money than foreign is being invested in Canadain industry and the occasional large individual investments of American capital in Canada can create a wrong impression.

He said any conception that the United States is a financial octopus is a myth.

He said a recent order by the British government freeing an as yet small amount of sterling for investment in Canda is helping Britain resume her historic role as a partner in Canadian expansion.

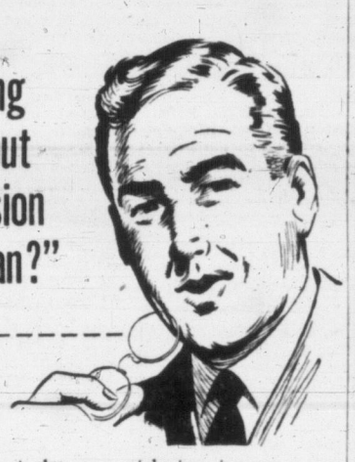
"Thinking about a Pension Plan?"


"There's more to it than you might imagine. When my company decided to put in a pension plan, we had to answer three important questions — how to set it up, who would operate it, whom to name as trustee.
We didn't make much headway until we consulted the Montreal Trust. They came through with the answers we needed. It seems they're often called upon for advice on pension plans. And, in our case, we appointed them trustee of the fund. They've taken the administrative load from our shoulders."

Britain's Finest Imported
This advertisement is not published or displayed by the Liquor Control Board or by the Government of British Columbia.

In 1944 we said:

"Make no little plans when you think of Canada's future . . . For Canada, when this war is ended, will stand on the threshold of a splendid and challenging opportunity. The need will be there, the time will be ripe, for vast, unprecedented development . . . By planning today, we purchase ready-made markets for tomorrow, markets which will absorb our fullest productive effort and thus create gainful employment for everyone."
—The above is an extract from an advertisement we published during March, 1944, in a wide list of publications.

IT WAS during the dark days of the last war that we wrote those words. Can anyone looking at Canada today, say that our confidence in the destiny of this country was misplaced?

Canada's Amazing Growth

The expansion in every phase of our national life since that advertisement appeared is a matter of record. The gross national product (the total value of all the goods and services Canada produces in a year) has risen from approximately $12 billion in 1944 to $23 billion in 1952 while the annual value of our manufactured goods alone has doubled during the same period.

From 12,000,000 in 1944, our population has increased by over two and a half million—which is like saying that more than three-quarters of the population of Norway, or more than one and a quarter times the population of New Zealand has been added during those years.

Despite the fact that Canada still has approximately only one-half of one percent of the world's population, she ranks third among the trading nations. Of the ten leading trading nations, on a per capita basis, she is first.

It is estimated that by 1960 our population will have reached sixteen and three quarter million and by that year some economists believe the total value of our goods and services will have passed the $30 billion mark.

Electricity Plays a Vital Part

Since 1940 Canada's output of electric power has more than doubled. This extensive development of our power resources undoubtedly accounts, in part, for this country's rapid expansion. It is significant, for example, that we use about three times as much electric energy as the thirteen countries of South America combined, although we have only about one-eighth of their population.

Working Hand-in-Hand with Industry

We of Canadian General Electric are proud of the part this Company has always played and is still playing in Canada's remarkable development. Our great family of workers has increased from 8,500 in 1944, when the above advertisement appeared, to over 14,000 today. And since that time we have spent some 45 million dollars on new plants, new offices and warehouses—as well as on new equipment and extensions to existing plants.

Because it believes that "the best is yet to be" where Canada is concerned, this Company is even now stepping up the expansion of its manufacturing and distributing facilities to meet the increasing demand for its products resulting from Canada's phenomenal development. And so today, we again say confidently: THINK BIG . . . when you plan for Canada's future.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

SONOMA, Calif.—With the opening of the Western International League season just over a week away and the Tyees scheduled to head north from their spring training site Wednesday, the infield just about appears set and conceivably on a par with last year's inner defense.

The main change, although manager Cec Garriott has not yet given an indication of his final choice, appears to be that Joe Clardy will be at first base in the place of Chuck Abernathy

Clardy has shown good plate power in drills here and though his field talent has yet to be severely tested, reports from those on the club who played with and against him last season indicate that his glove work will be more than ample.

Walker

Lu Branham, though reporting to camp late and self-admittedly not yet in his best physical condition, will likely get the second base call. Don Pries may have to battle for the third-base berth, but on his training camp showing, seems set to retain his regular position. Pries has been batting in the clean-up spot in exhibition games, and perhaps the fact that he has been concentrating on a new stance in an effort to get more left-field power, is the reason that he has been hitting below his usual proficiency.

That leaves the shortstop berth open, as it was at this time last year. Ronnie Odekirk, the 19-year-old ex-air force youngster, has been fielding well enough to hold the job and is also taking special batting drills from manager Cec Garriott in an effort to improve his hitting. Odekirk will possibly get the starting call. However, this depends on how Jim Clark fares in the next week or so. Clark has been exercising his injured finger and will be with the club on the trip north.

Of course it could happen that Garriott may change his mind in the meantime, but as of now and barring unforeseen circumstances or injuries this, too, is problematical. If he doesn't the possible quartet of Clardy, Branham, Odekirk and Pries should give the club an infield almost as strong defensively as last year, with Odekirk, a rookie, naturally a question mark. Offensively, this group should be on a par, or even stronger, than last year's unit, as Clardy, on his past record, figures to hit better than Abernathy.

One of the most noticeable features of daily drills has been the extra work put in by Odekirk, usually in the company of catcher Milt Martin, a late arrival at camp, and outfielder Gale Taylor. The kid is keen as mustard, so much so that after dinner the other night he was seen asking Garriott for batting advice in the dining room.

It was an odd scene, Garriott with a package of gum in his hands, giving the lesson, and Odekirk, sometimes seated and sometimes standing, attempting to simulate the swing of his mentor.

One possibility that cannot be overlooked, although there has been no definite indication that such will come about, is that Odekirk may be given a crack at second base if Clark is fit to play regularly. Just in case this need should arise, Odekirk has been seen taking his turn at second, and usually on his own hook.

Still in all, there are two big question marks at the moment. One is utility fielder Herman Charles who has yet to report, and the other is Clark. If either, or both, show enough in the brief time at their disposal to warrant a starting berth, it could throw this long range prediction into a cocked hat. But if that happens, the Tyees' infield problem then would be minor ones.

Visiting Shotmakers Shiver

23 Victorians in Championship Flight

If qualifying rounds can be taken as any indication, this may be Victoria's year to score a clean-up in the Empress Golf Tournament.

A total of 23 local divoters, eight men and 15 women, passed the qualifying test Monday as the 23rd annual tournament got under way at Victoria and Colwood Golf Clubs.

Brisk winds at both courses rocketed scores, but Victorians still made excellent showings.

Betty Peatt, a comparative newcomer, who is a fledging protege of Colwood pro Bill Court, checked in with a net 79 at Colwood to take medal honors in the women's section.

A 29-handicapper, Miss Peatt fired a gross 52-56—108 for her medal-winning score.

TRIPLE FINISH

At Victoria Golf Club there was a three-way tie for the medal position with local all-round athlete Freddy Ranson claiming one spot.

Ranson, together with L. C. Johnson of Vancouver and B. Huenergard of Portland, fired a 69 to lead the 32 men who qualified with 74's or better.

There was a six-way tie for second place at 70 with the remainder of the large field tightly packed.

Low gross honors were won by Colwood's Bill McColl who fired a creditable 75 while clubmate Vic Painter had a 76. Both qualified with net 72's.

CHAMPION OUT

Among the top golfers to fall by the wayside was last year's men's champion Ed Thompson, of Astoria, who failed to qualify. Thompson's 76 was two strokes over the qualifying score.

At Colwood there was a four-way tie for second place behind Miss Peatt in the qualifying round. Eighty-nine was the qualifying score.

Victoria's Mrs. Isabel McIntyre was the only starter in the field of 109 to break 90, firing an 89 and that was good enough to win low gross honors.

Mrs. McIntyre had a 43 on the front nine and a 46 coming home, including a damaging seven on the 18th hole. She played to a three-stroke handicap.

Women divoters were scheduled to continue today and Wednesday with match play at Colwood, joining their male counterparts at Victoria Golf Club Thursday.

Large Entry Expected Here for First 'Spiel

Officials of the Victoria Curling Club are anticipating as many as 60 rinks entering competition in the first curling bonspiel ever held in Victoria.

The 'spiel is scheduled to begin Monday and teams will be competing for nearly $2,000 in prizes during the four-day stand at the local curling rink on Quadra Street.

Twenty - four entries have been received at present, eight local foursomes and 15 outside rinks, and the number is growing daily.

DISTANT ENTRIES

Entries have been received from Port Alberni, Duncan, Nanaimo, Seattle and Vancouver, and there is a possibility that some will be obtained from the prairies. Deadline for teams entering is Wednesday night, but mailed entries will be accepted Thursday morning.

Seattle bonspiel, currently in swing, ends Sunday and officials are hoping to lure some of the stalwarts from the American side. Some golfers currently competing in the Empress golf tournament are expected to stay over for the event also.

Top enticement of the bonspiel, which is divided into four sections, will be the Grand Challenge trophy donated by Max Zabel of the Dominion Hotel. Others include a trophy and four other prizes from The Daily Times, T. Eaton Cup, Ker-Stephenson trophy and the Birks trophy, awarded to the winner of the grand aggregate event.

Play opens Monday with the first night shift at 6.30 and another at 9. After the first night, play will open at 8 in the morning and shifts will continue at two and one-half-hour intervals until 10 at night.

Local playdowns for the city championship get under way on Thursday night with close to 48 teams competing. Highest winners of the round-robin series, which have been played throughout the winter, will compose the starters in a knockout tourney for the title.

Curling season will end with the bonspiel and the ice will be taken up and the building prepared for various shows throughout the summer, including the B.C. Products Fair.

FIVE C's MEET

Annual general meeting of the Five C's Cricket Club will be held at the Elks' Home Friday night at 8. All members and interested newcomers are requested to attend.

FABULOUS HOUBREGS TO PLAY TWO GAMES HERE

The touring Seattle College all-star basketball team that thrilled Alberni fans in a two-game stand last week-end, will be in Victoria for two games April 24 and 25.

The team, which is built around University of Washington's all-American Bob Houbregs, will play two games against Busher Jackson's Victoria Kins, Vancouver Island champions.

It is likely that the Kins will be bolstered by the addition of Harry Kermode and Joe Samarin of Alberni for the two games.

Australia to Present Reports of Progress

MELBOURNE (AP)—This is a preview of the progress report to be presented to the International Olympic Committee meeting at Mexico City Friday by a confident delegation from the Melbourne organizing committee of the 1956 Olympic Games.

The delegation will consist of Hugh Weir, Australia's senior IOC delegate, Harry Alderson, chairman of the Australian Olympic federation, and Arthur Coles, chairman of the Olympic Games Control Committee.

Both the federal and the Victorian state governments have pledged financial support and Melbourne city council is 100 per cent behind the games.

HUGE STADIUM

The stadium now holds 80,000 with most seats under cover. By 1956, it is hoped to increase the capacity to 120,000.

A space will be set aside for 1,000 sportswriters and broadcasters.

The main stadium will be within walking distance of the heart of the city and is close to three training stadia.

The modern swimming pool at Fawkner Park will be about a 15-minute walk from the main stadium. The pool, to cost a minimum of $784,000, will be covered and will seat 6,000. It will consist of a standard Olympic 50 metre pool and a special diving pool. Construction will start in a few weeks. At least eight training pools will be available within five miles of the city.

Olympic athletes will be quartered in a modern village, probably at Heidelberg, seven miles from Melbourne. Six hundred two and three-bedroom houses will be built, each to hold 10 athletes.

ALL FACILITIES

Laundry facilities will be available as well as communal dining halls, recreation rooms and amusement halls. The press and radio centre will be at Melbourne University.

Rowing and canoeing events will be held at Lake Wenouree, 70 miles by road from Melbourne at Ballarat.

The Melbourne exhibition building will be used for basketball, fencing and weight-lifting.

The Melbourne town hall, which seats 2,500, will be used for wrestling, and the West Melbourne Stadium with 9,000 seats will be used for boxing.

Olympic park, less than a mile from the city, will be the venue for cycling events. It will be built at a minimum cost of $448,000.

With 12 stadia within five miles of the city, each capable of holding more than 40,000 people, the organizers have no qualms about staging the hockey and soccer events.

The equestrian three-day event will be held within 15 miles of the city.

The Olympic organizers admit, however, that the government has not yet agreed to lift quarantine restrictions. Under these restrictions horses can come directly only from Britain and New Zealand, and then only after having spent six months in those countries.

Greyhound Racers Seek Track Site

The Vancouver Island Greyhound Racing and Breeding Association will hold a meeting Wednesday to discuss possibilities of a site for a dog racing track.

Officials state that no parimutuel betting is planned if the track opens.

Committee members for the association looked over several sites Friday night. Objective of the group is to train dogs for racing.

ALL-PRAIRIE AFFAIR

Flyers Nip Canucks To Enter WHL Final

By the Canadian Press

The Western Hockey League finals are going to be an all-Prairie affair between Edmonton Flyers and Saskatoon Quakers.

Flyers made the grade Monday night with a 3-1 win over Vancouver Canucks, giving them the best-of-five semifinal three games to one.

Flyers, who polished off Calgary Stampeders in the quarter-finals, open the best-of-seven finals at Saskatoon Thursday. Second game will be played in Saskatoon Saturday.

MAINTAINS STREAK

Edmonton's Jim Anderson, maintaining his goal-a-game record in nine playoff contests, punched home the winning goal midway through the third period.

Other Edmonton scorers were Ray Hannigan and Larry Wilson. Defenseman Harry Dick was the Vancouver marksman.

After playing a scoreless first period, the teams split a pair of goals in the second and Flyers sewed it up with two markers in the final 20 minutes.

Dick opend the scoring early in the second on a play engineered by his defensive mate, Hugh Currie.

Flyers squared it up four minutes later when Al Arbour's 45-foot screened shot was tipped into the net by Hannigan. Goalie Emile Francis protested that an Edmonton player was in the crease when the goal was scored, but to no avail.

WINNING GOAL

Anderson's winning effort came at the 12-minute mark of the third period when Francis was fooled on a rising close-in shot that caught the corner.

Wilson fired the clincher into an open net with 24 seconds remaining in the game after Canuck coach Art Chapman had pulled Francis for an extra forward.

First period—No scoring. Penalties: Smith 4.24, Johnson 11.34.

Second period—1, Vancouver, Dick (Currie, Popein), 5.35; 2, Edmonton, Hannigan (Arbour, Reibel), 9.27. Penalties: Francis 9.39 (served by Atanas), Reibel 14.48.

Third period—3, Edmonton, Anderson (Folk), 11.40; 4, Edmonton, Wilson, 19.35. Penalties: None.

Stops—Francis 11, 8, 9—28; Hall 6, 12, 8—26.

Thom Chosen By Fair Sex Softballers

Victoria Girls' Softball League held a meeting recently and chose Dave Thom as president of the circuit. Bob Barr was elected vice-president and Lorne Luney was chosen secretary-treasurer.

Five teams — Individual Cleaners, Red Sox, Sidney Merchants, Copley Bros, and one unnamed squad—have entered the league which starts play the week of May 11. Deadline for team entries has been set at April 20.

Copley Bros. will vie for league honors but will miss the city championship to compete for the Vancouver Island juvenile girls' title.

All league games will be played at Lower Central Park starting at 6.45.

BROOKLYN—Floyd Patterson, 166½, Brooklyn, outpointed Dick Wagner, 175½, Toppenish, Wash., 8.

PITCHER ACQUIRED

Tyee Bobbles Benefit Caps

By BILL WALKER, Times Sports Editor

SONOMA, Calif.—The power-laden Vancouver Capilanos chased eight unearned runs across the plate in the ninth inning Monday night to score a come-from-behind 15-8 victory over the Victoria Tyees here.

It was the 12th victory in 13 exhibition starts for the free-wheeling Caps, who are definitely "loaded" as far as player talent is concerned, and the seventh loss in nine tries for the Tyees. Vancouver's only loss this season came at the hands of the Salem Senators by a narrow 2-1 margin earlier in the spring training season.

Going into the fateful ninth frame, the Tyees were clinging to a slender 8-7 lead with Tyees' Bill Wisneski and Caps' Pete Hernandez hooked up in an interesting pitching duel.

ROUGH INNING

However, rookie shortstop Ronnie Odekirk had his first bad inning of the grapefruit circuit and committed three costly boots in the inning. The errors, combined with two walks and a hit batter by Wisneski and a bases-loaded double by Vancouver first-baseman Jim Wert sank the Tyees.

Odekirk, whose errors appeared to be the result of nervousness, possibly by the fact that Jimmy Clark checked into camp just before the game, was inconsolable after the game as the good-looking youngster is determined to nail the short-patch spot.

Three walks, an outfield fly and Don Pries' single chased in two Victoria runs in the first inning and they added three more in the second on singles by catcher Sam Brusa, Wisneski and Lu Branham and Garriott's long fly.

A two-run triple in the fourth by Gale Taylor, who later scored on an infield out, accounted for the Tyees' final three runs.

TWO GAMES TONIGHT

Tyees and Capilanos meet in a double-header at Healdsburg tonight and the Tyees break camp Wednesday. If connections are made as planned, they may arrive in Victoria Thursday.

The Tyees acquired badly-needed pitching help Monday when they traded Walt Tyler to Stockton for Mike Williams, a 22-year-old Negro right-hander just out of the army.

Mike Fournier, Chicago Cub scout, told business manager Reg Patterson that Williams would be a great help to the Tyees.

There is also a strong possibility that the Tyees will purchase another pitcher from Stockton, known only as Romero. He won 15 games for the last-place Stockton club last year.

Line-score follows:

Civil Service Bowlers Feted

Kathy Nuttall was elected president of the Women's Civil Service Bowling League for the coming season, at the annual league banquet and meeting held recently.

Georgina Thom was named secretary and Ruth Craven will take over the position of treasurer.

The Cupies team were awarded a perpetual cup for first place in team standings and Ados were presented with a cup for second place.

Miss Nuttall took individual league honors with a high average of 188, high individual game of 372 and top total at 789. She received perpetual cups and trophies for her efforts.

STRONG PITCHING MAY MAKE DIFFERENCE

Broncs Pack Kick This Year

By CHARLES BOREN
Lewiston Tribune Sports Writer

LEDISTON (AP) — Lewiston's Broncs of the Western International Baseball League figure on coming out of the chute just a little bit faster in 1955.

Last year—Lewiston's second adventure in the league—the Broncs faded early in the season and after a battle for fifth place in the standing finally wound up sixth.

Pitching will make the difference this time.

★ ★ ★

At least four front-liners are now on the mound staff assembled by general manager Bill Brenner, who figures to be one of the regulars.

The Broncs are well stocked with baseball veterans for the campaign they'll open April 23 at Vancouver.

Brenner, who made his baseball name in the Pacific Coast League as a catcher, began molding a new career as a pitcher when he hit Lewiston. With his knuckle-ball, he was one of two WIL hurlers who won more than 20 games last season.

Also counted as regular starters are big John Marshall, who composed a 13-9 mark with second-place Spokane last year; Manny Berez, who quit Mexican ball for the Broncs after Pacific Coast League experience, and Joe Nicholas, 11-11 with Lewiston last year.

★ ★ ★

A flock of less-experienced chuckers with shiny records stand ready to back up those mound-men. They include Russell Butler, up from Pocatello of the Pioneer League, where he won 21 and lost six; Earl Dollins, with Visalia of the Cal-State loop in 1952, and Pete Young, another Visalia stand-by. All are lefthanders.

★ ★ ★

Righthanders include Jim Clancy who won four and lost five for the Broncs last year; Vince Giovanni, on option from the St. Louis Browns' organization, and Gordon Tench, Canadian fire-baller who won 16 and lost nine with Redding in the Far West loop in 1952.

If Tench can cut the mustard he's likely to be the youngest veteran of three or more years' pro experience in the league. He's just 21.

Clint "Dude" Cameron, who's paraded through the Coast League, and Dick Neal, just back from Korea, will do the catching. Larry Barton, who managed Visalia last season and is in his 17th pro year, will play first base and assist Brenner in coaching the club.

Glen Tuckett returns to second base. Veteran Ken Richardson, who started his pro career with Los Angeles in 1934, is tagged for the hot corner.

At shortstop Brenner is trying Don Stewart, veteran who finished army duty last fall, and Bill Stumpus, veteran of the Cal-State and Pioneer leagues.

Al Heist, fresh from the retired list; Mel Wasley, top 1952 Spokane batter with a .333 mark, and Artie Wilson of the 1952 Broncs, are ticketed for outfield jobs. The Broncs will also make liberal use of Bob "Gabby" Williams, a hometown boy who led Lewiston hitting last season with a .311 average. Williams probably will relieve Barton at first occasionally.

Full Ball Slate Today; Braves in First Place

ONE OF THE best track stars ever produced by Victoria High School, Ted Whan was officially credited with a Canadian record this week at the 59th annual meeting of the AAU of Canada. Whan recorded a hop-step-and-jump mark of 43 feet ¼ inch at the B.C. Interscholastic Track Meet last May and the mark has now been officially recognized by the AAU as the Canadian interscholastic record. Whan is now at Western Washington College.

Major league baseball clubs took off their spring training wraps and start playing for keeps today after giving their newest partner, Milwaukee Braves, a one-game head start.

About 225,000 fans were expected to sit in on the eight opening games. The weatherman predicted passable conditions everywhere.

The return of big league baseball to Milwaukee after 50 years was expected to draw a sellout crowd of 36,011, considerably above anything else in the National League.

The Braves came to their new home after beating Cincinnati 2-0 Monday in a National League preview. The American League half of the special opening program between Washington and the world champion New York Yankees in the United States capital was rained out.

Veteran Max Surkont and rookie Bill Bruton got Milwaukee off to an auspicious start.

SURKONT STARRY

Surkont held the Redlegs to three hits—two ground-rule doubles and a single—and contributed a double and a single to the Milwaukee attack. Bruton singled to open the game, stole second and scored the first run. Later he doubled and twice he snared long drives.

Lefty Warren Spahn, who lost to Brooklyn by one run in the Braves' opener last year, drew the home assignment against the Cards' Gerry Staley.

The washout in Washington cost Vice-President Nixon his chance to toss out the first ball. President Eisenhower said Monday night he would be back for the rescheduled Washington opener Thursday. Eisenhower left for a golfing holiday in Georgia and had tossed the opening day job to Nixon.

Today's largest crowd, some 50,000, was expected at Cleveland to watch the Indians and Chicago White Sox, the two clubs figured to have the best chance of ending the Yankees' four-year reign in the American League. Bob Lemon got the opening nod against Saul Rogovin.

YANKS MEET A's

Casey Stengel raises his fourth pennant at Yankee Stadium and then sends his charges into action against Philadelphia Athletics, Vic Raschi facing Alex Kellner.

At Boston, the Red Sox meet Washington. Mel Parnell goes against Bob Porterfield.

Ned Garver, who shut out Detroit while wearing a St. Louis uniform in last year's opener, will try to reverse the trick this time in the only night game on today's schedule. Garver was traded to the Tigers early last season. Virgil Trucks will open for St. Louis.

The Boston-Milwaukee shift juggled the opening day schedule in the National League and brought Pittsburgh Pirates into Ebbets Field, home of Brooklyn Dodgers. The Dodgers, heavy choice to win their second straight flag, started the chase with Carl Erskine on the mound against Murry Dickson.

Just as in the American League, the two teams the experts pick to challenge the current champion start the season by meeting each other. New York Giants, Larry Jansen pitching, face the Phillies in Philadelphia. Robin Roberts, a 28-year-old winner last year, will go after No. 1 of the 1953 season.

Cincinnati pits lefty Ken Raffensberger against Bob Rush and Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field.

Bleeding Nose Fixed, Rocky Resumes Grind

NEW YORK (AP)—With a notable absence of fanfare, Rocky Marciano, the heavyweight champion, will fly back west today to resume training for his return title fight with Jersey Joe Walcott, now scheduled for May 15 in Chicago Stadium.

Since April 2, when specialists found two small but free-flowing cuts inside his nose and ordered him to cease boxing for a fortnight, the Brockton buster has been taking things easy at his Massachusetts home, doing only roadwork each morning. He expects to begin sparring again this week at his Holland, Mich., camp.

'CAN'T WAIT'

In a departing statement Marciano's manager, Al Weill, assured us that Rocky's nose feels much better and that he can't wait to start busting the heavy bag again.

"I had a real cauterizing job done on it—one that ought to last," Weill said. "When he starts boxing again we won't use any special noseguard but only the headgear we always use."

Asked if, in deference to a ticket sale which had been none too good up to the postponement, he might move Rocky's training quarters into Chicago a week or so before the date, Al said positively not.

"I don't know anything about the ticket sales," Al said. "All I'm interested in is getting Rocky in shape to whip Walcott, and Holland is a swell place for it."

Duty compelled the remark that, after the postponement was announced, several experts recalled that the champion had been looking sluggish in his workouts. They wondered if Weill had detected signs of staleness before he called in the specialists.

Chess Playoff Needed for Fifth Place

A playoff match between Lionel Basanta and T. N. Curteis will be necessary to decide fifth place in the Victoria and District Chess Championship.

Basanta was defeated by F. Scholz in the final match of the tournament and the loss left him tied with T. N. Curteis for fifth.

Dr. S. Marinker gained one and one-half of a possible two points from R. H. Snape in a playoff for third and fourth place. Marinker now needs only a half point to clinch the spot.

Standings follow:

	W	L	D	Pts
O. Sarakannas	15	0	1	15½
F. W. Plant	11	3	2	12
Dr. S. Marinker	11	5	0	11

L. Basanta	9	5	2	10

NANAIMO MAY ENTER LOCAL BOXLA LEAGUE

The Senior "B" Lacrosse League is expected to take on an inter-city appearance this season.

Harry Porter, manager of Nanaimo Arena, has announced that he has been in contact with the manager of the up-island team and they have expressed their intentions of entering a representative in the circuit. A delegate had been chosen to attend the last meeting of league officials here but was unable to make the meeting.

Acceptance of Nanaimo would give the league three teams entered for competition, Foul Bay and Jokers being the other two.

First workout for the juvenile "B" section of the Victoria Amateur Lacrosse Association has been set for Thursday evening at 6, in Stevenson Park. All players interested in playing in that section are asked to attend and register.

Saturday morning at 9, the pee wees will practice and the bantams will work out at 10.30, also in Stevenson Park.

Eilers Take Lead in Canadian Cage Final

TORONTO (CP).—Defending champion Vancouver Eilers took a 1-0 lead in a best-of-five Canadian senior's women's basketball championship final by downing Toronto Benny's Maids, 60-38, Monday night.

Nora McDermott sparked the winners with 17 points on six baskets and five free throws. Beryl Piper paced her with four field goals and four free throws for 12 points and Noreen Stoddard added nine.

Top scorer for the Maids was Mary Barnett with 11 points on three field goals and five free shots. Rosemary McGill picked up eight and Helen Cail and Margery Shedd added six each.

Vancouver took the lead in the first quarter on a basket by Piper. Play see-sawed throughout the period with the lead changing hands three times. Eilers led 13-12 at the quarter.

SUPERIOR REACH

Vancouver seemed to have the reach on the Toronto team as they grabbed the larger percentage of rebounds although the Eilers had no advantage in height.

The clubs remained one point apart in the second until the score was tied 16-16. Then Toronto went ahead 18-16. Eilers came back with three fast baskets for a 24-16 lead, then added three more points in the session. Toronto added four.

Eilers showed a superior passing attack in the third and were much sharper on shooting.

DEWEY HARLESS
. . . salty lead.

Any Victorian who ever had a yen to join the navy or see action in the Pacific should attend the York Theatre this week. This will give him a navy's-eye-view that will really burn his britches and bulge his laugh line.

This is one of the most famous plays to come out of the war, and no wonder. It is real, not a highly colored landlubber's version of the navy's war with plenty of exciting action and dazzling heroism, but a tale of what goes on behind the battle areas, in a cargo ship captained by a snarling, ugly-humored merchant seaman.

But it tells its tale with plenty of rough-and-ready tangy comedy and it has some truly heroic moments—the quiet, unpretentious kind of heroism that is often found in back areas.

It is not surprising to know this is the first stock company production of the play in Canada. It is a tough assignment, requiring courage, talent and hard work to achieve an effective production.

So when one reports that this is definitely an effective production — in spite of one or two first-night hitches — there is practically nothing more that needs be said.

TECHNICALLY SOUND

Style of the production as to scenery and lighting was well realized. The 12 scenes into which the play is divided render it rather episodic, but with a tightening up of the time element this will not bother an audience looking forward to its next laugh while still savoring the last. Sound effects, incidentally, are excellent.

Dewey Harless, playing the title role—a man possessed of the finest qualities of heroism and leadership—is 100 per cent convincing, and more than ever impressed me as being one of the York company's soundest and most moving actors.

Robert Tabor was delightful and Alexander Gray, Arthur Coe-Gray and all members of the large cast were perfectly authentic. Doris Sheridan's brief appearance as the navy nurse was like a splash of color accent in a painting or a dash of spice in a tasty dish.

Travels in Style

Winnie, the crippled Canada goose, has traveled back to Canada in style. Escorted by pretty stewardess Jean Spence, Winnie was flown from Greenwich, Conn., to the Jack Miner bird sanctuary at Kingsville, Ont. There he will get treatment so he can control his tail feathers and fly again. He wears a 14-carat leg band marked "Winnie, U.S.A.-Canada," a reminder of the near-diplomatic incident which resulted from his injury. U.S. officials finally permitted Winnie to leave for Canada. He was flown back by Trans-Canada Air Lines. (CP Photo.)

Famed Ballet Of Sadler's Wells To Play Vancouver

By GLENNE CURRIE

LONDON (Reuters)—Sadler's Wells Ballet will return this fall to scenes of former triumphs in Canada and the United States, hoping to cash in on the "ballet boom."

The British company will open a 20-week tour September 13 at New York. Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver are included in the tour.

Leading the dancers will be Margot Fonteyn, the company's 33-year-old prima ballerina. She is said to be even better now than when acclaimed the "perfect" Odette-Odile in the company's full-length "Swan Lake."

Other leading soloists will include statuesque Beryl Grey, Russian-born Svetlana Beriosova and Violetta Elvin, Nadia Nerina, Rowena Jackson and Anne Heaton.

Missing will be red-headed Moira Shearer, now free-lancing and acting as guest artist with the company here at Covent Garden opera house.

"A DREAM OF QUEEN ESTHER"

Cast:
(in order of appearance)

Mordecai, Leader of the Jews	Dick Pugh
Meesha Zabeel, Esther's old nurse	Sheila Martin
Hegai, King's Chamberlain	Roy Macdonald

Kazma Shimeel	Frances Murray
Koosh, slave	Pat Hocking
Lady Ozoona	Beverley Noel
Lady Jakosha	Beth Williams
Princess Zuecca	Mary Putman

They didn't have much money, they didn't have a professional prompter, but they did have talent. The AYPA of St. John's Church displayed their skills to a fully-appreciative audience in the Parish Hall Monday night with their version of "A Dream of Queen Esther."

No signs of first night nervousness were detectable in the capacity house as the play went off without a hitch, largely due to the director, S. C. Hawkins.

Youthful Quee Esther, Frances Farmer, was a standout, while Russell Smith as King Ahaseurus did equally well. Dick Pugh as Mordecai, leader of the Jews, and Pat Hocking as Koosh, a slave girl, played professionally competent roles.

Jennie Mae Sawyer, who doubled as prompter and Martha in the play, also deserves a big orchid.

At times, the group had to compete with the rattle of movable chairs, but every word came out clear and crisp . . . and also without the least hesitation.

The play has a little humor scattered throughout, as when King Ahaseurus and his aide-de-camp, Hegai, portrayed by Roy Macdonald, discuss the "beauties" from which the king must choose a bride. Koosh makes quips about the hopeful ladies.

Frances Murray, playing Kazma Shimeel, a Persian girl, also displayed her talents in another field by rendering a very pretty version of "Only a Rose."

The play winds up tonight at 8.

Indians Planning Island Festival

Vancouver Island Indian delegates will meet on Songhees reservation Sunday to complete plans for a two-day festival for the first week in June.

Chief Percy Ross of the Songhees band said the festival will include canoe races, log birling, presentation of the Indian operetta, "Tzinquaw," and displays of Indian arts and crafts.

The chief said the festival may be tied in with the general Coronation celebrations. This matter would be discussed by the Indian delegates on Sunday, he said.

Carnival Worker Recovers From Bite Of Deadly Snake

MONTREAL (BUP). — Snake victim Armand Couillard showed marked improvement today and doctors on the case reported jubilantly that "he'll live."

Couillard, 23, a carnival worker, was bitten by a deadly water moccasin snake Sunday. He was being given anti-venom injections regularly from serum located in a fisherman's kitbag in Hamilton, Ont., after an international search for it.

"He is much better and improving hourly," the doctors reported.

They could not speculate, however, on how long it would be before the youth is released. Tests were made on the proteins in his stomach to determine the damage inflicted by the snake's poison but the results were not expected to be known until late today.

LADYSMITH—With the business section canvass still to be completed, the city has topped its $1,200 quota in the Red Cross drive by $7. George C. Pollock, president of the Ladysmith branch, has expressed satisfaction in the resurgence of Red Cross work here.

If the option is exercised, the $50,000 price on the property will be met with funds received from the sale of Central Sports Ground to Canada Safeway Ltd. for $100,000.

Saanich Won't Relax Hunting Restrictions

Hope of hunters to get Saanich council to agree to allow them to shoot in certain sections of the municipality were dashed Monday.

Council refused to relax its prohibition of shooting, only recently enacted by by-law.

C. J. Jackman, Colquitz, suggested that an area around Prospect Lake, where there are few homes, be zoned as a special area for hunters.

"I'm against it," said Councillor H. K. Bate. "This area near Prospect Lake will make a good sanctuary for deer, sheep and a few humans."

The council agreed to let the Victoria Archery Club use grounds in Colquitz area, now reserved for future use as a sewage disposal area.

New Flood Threat Over In Holland

THE HAGUE (Reuters). — Hundreds of volunteer dike menders have brought the Netherlands' latest floods under control.

The dikes were ripped open by Sunday's abnormally-high North Sea tide. By Monday night most of the breaches had been patched, an official spokesman said.

There were no casualties when the sea burst through inland dikes on Schouwen-Duiveland, big island in the Scheldt estuary, already sorely tried in the February floods. The 1,200 inhabitants of Bruinisse, on the eastern trip of the island, fled to upper rooms as the rising waters poured through three breaches in the old inland dike between Bruinisse and Oosterland and again flooded the 2,000-acre polder (reclaimed land) which had already suffered in the February floods.

Workers struggled all night to plug the gaps, one of which was 40 yards wide and nine feet deep.

There were 37,800 fox pups born on Canadian fur farms in 1951, about 27 per cent fewer than in 1950.

Lake Chad, central Africa, has an area of about 10,000 square miles during the dry season, and about 20,000 square miles during the rainy season.

Promoter Seeks Esquimalt Car Racing Track

An automobile racetrack is under consideration for Esquimalt, it was disclosed at a council meeting there Monday night.

An offer was received by council of $3,000 for properties on Skinners' flats from T. D. Marson. He said he would ask permission to build an automobile racetrack with a rugby and soccer field on the property.

The sale was approved in principle by Clr. James Bryant and vehemently opposed by Clr. G. R. Guillemaud.

It was decided that council lands committee would meet with the applicant and report further on the matter at next council meeting.

Hawarden Castle, Lord Gladstone's seat in Flintshire, North Wales, dates from 1572.

Esquimalt May Close Road If Ottawa Refuses Upkeep

A serious state of disrepair affecting Admirals Road will be referred to the department of national defense by Esquimalt council, it was learned Monday night.

Clr. G. K. Sammon stated that it is possible the road will have to be closed if heavy defense area traffic continues to use it without accepting responsibility for upkeep. He added that there have been complaints to Esquimalt council from BCER officials.

Council decided that Reeve A. C. Wurtele would represent it in a discussion on the matter with dockyard officials and that representation should be made through them to the federal government.

PUBLIC HEALTH REPORT SCHEDULED

Expert to Probe Forshaw Sewage Problem

A consulting engineer will be hired by Esquimalt council to plan action relieving sewage difficulties facing the municipality in the Forshaw-Shirley area.

The action was announced at a council meeting Monday night.

Homes in that area have been served with septic tanks, but due to the clay deposits over which they are built, seepage is not absorbed. Residents have blamed open ditches filled with polluted water for disease in the subdivision.

Various plans for drainage and hook-up with municipal sewage systems have been suggested and abandoned due to excessive cost.

The 1953 estimates included an appropriation of $4,500 to be spent in solving the problem. The condition is "worsening," according to Clr. G. K. Sammon.

Meanwhile, a letter was read to council from the Victoria-Esquimalt Health Centre stating that a complete report on the matter from a point of view of public health will be presented next week.

A residents' committee which has sought action on the matter for three years was present at the council meeting.

GARBAGE BURIAL

A system of trench burial of garbage will be given a month's trial on Skinners Flats, council decided.

A trench three feet wide and six feet deep will receive the refuse from municipal garbage trucks. It will be dumped to a depth of four feet and covered nightly by a bulldozer.

Municipal engineer J. Graeme suggested that council approve the plan for a 30-day trial but he pointed out objections that might block the final adoption of the scheme.

He said maintaining access to the trench over soft earth fills may be costly and risky to the trucks. He also thought that the trench may be a hazard to children and added that by his own estimate the operation would not prove economical.

Clr. G. K. Sammon disapproved of the plan on grounds of sanitation, but council voted that the trial period be initiated.

Other council business saw permission granted the Esquimalt Community Association for use of Memorial Park for May Queen celebrations May 6 at 7 p.m. Reeve and council will attend.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele was appointed to represent council at meetings of the Victoria Public Library Board.

BETWEEN TIMES

By PUNCH ROBERTS

My, but there is a great rush of people hurrying up to be drafted as candidates.

I do not suppose one more nomination-seeker would be noticed in the crowd, so I hereby announce I am a canine-date in the June elections.

Always remember, a vote for me certainly is, isn't it?

No other candidate can make that statement.

If nominated and elected, I promise to stand foursquare, with all four feet on the ground.

No other candidate can make that statement.

If elected, I will wear no man's collar.

I will wear my own dog collar.

No other candidate can make that statement.

If elected, I will have a firm policy on public works, as follows:

The public works all the time. If elected, I will work the public all the time.

No other candidate dares make that statement.

If elected, I will abolish all car licenses.

After all, cats do not pay licenses, and cats and cars are very much alike.

They are both extremely dangerous when let loose on the streets at night.

No other candidate can make that statement.

If elected, I will embark on several new points with regard to forest management.

The trouble with most forests is, you cannot see them for the trees.

I will take care of the trees, and the forests will take care of themselves.

I have never yet barked up the wrong tree.

No other candidate can make that statement.

If elected, I will have no problems at all with the liquor problem.

Liquor doesn't bother me.

I am a treetotaller.

No other candidate can make that statement.

Remember, voters, when you go to the polls, vote Punch for Premier—a dog who has had experience around polls ever since he learned to walk.

What other candidate can make that statement?

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, APRIL 14, 1953 13

Son Says Father Grabbed His Arm Before Fatal Saanich Jeep Crash

The 61-year-old victim of a fatal traffic accident in Saanich last Thursday had just arrived in Victoria from the mainland and was on his way to visit his grandchildren, a coroner's jury was told today.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury at an inquest at Sands' Mortuary in the death of John McMurdo, Port Coquitlam.

Son of the victim, 31-year-old William McMurdo, Goward Road, Prospect Lake, told the jury he had picked up his father and was driving him home in his jeep when the accident occurred.

They were traveling along Interurban Road near Burnside Road when, the son testified, the senior McMurdo "for some unknown reason suddenly grabbed my arm."

The jeep swerved off the road and plunged down a bank along Colquitz Creek.

"I saw trees coming toward me and we crashed," the son testified.

STILL LIMPING

Walking with a limp from leg injuries he received in the accident, Mr. McMurdo said he was driving at not more than 28 miles an hour at the time.

Evidence that speed of the jeep was not excessive was supported by other witnesses.

David McMillan and Ronald Burnham, who both saw the accident, said the car was traveling at a normal speed and seemed "suddenly to swerve" and go off the road.

Sgt. Jack Hamilton and Constables Harry Adams and George Walton of the Saanich police department, who attended the accident, said there was no evidence to show that the car was traveling above the normal speed of 30 miles an hour.

David Nightingale, Holland Avenue, said Saanich police were at the scene of the accident in a matter of minutes and lost no time in taking the victim to hospital.

Mr. McMurdo died as the result of multiple injuries, according to Dr. E. L. McNiven, who examined him at the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

TOP ROLE FOR BALD PATE

CD to Simulate Disaster As Actors Play Patients

Civil defense authorities here are seeking a completely bald-headed man.

He is needed to assist in a public display Thursday of a casualty clearing station in action. It commences at 8.30 at Bay Street armoury.

Casualty faking will be so realistic that children under 16 will not be admitted, officials said.

The bald-pated volunteer, when he is found, will have a simulated scalp and brain injury. Experts in theatrical make-up will supervise preparation of the "wounds." Local amateur actors and actresses will be patients for the display, which will be attended by top CD officials from Ottawa.

All city first aid groups and medical personnel have been invited to the display either as spectators or in the demonstrations.

Victoria Stores Not Included in Plan To Cut Over-Counter Milk Sale Price

Reduced over-the-counter milk prices in Victoria stores are still in the "hoping" stage.

Canada Safeway Ltd. and Super-Value Stores announced today that starting May 1 they would sell milk in Vancouver at 2 cents under the home delivery price. No such plan has been prepared for Victoria.

Canada Safeway, which has held the initiative in the movement to reduce prices, plans on concentrating on the Vancouver area first.

"There is nothing in our present plans concerning Victoria," a Safeway official in Vancouver told the Times today. "We have not discussed the Victoria situation seriously, but I suppose it is conceivable that lower prices may come about in the future. There are no changes being proposed now."

If Safeway cuts prices here, it will meet plenty of competition.

A spokesman for Super-Valu and Red and White Stores said their two organizations "will be competitive with the lowest price in Victoria."

It is understood that dairies in Victoria will consider adjusting prices to permit independent stores to meet the competition.

Present price of milk, both delivered and in stores, is 24 cents. Producer price is fixed at $5.90 per 100 pounds.

Independent Merchants' Co-operative Association has asked local dairies to "protect" their stores, in order that they, too, can reduce prices.

"We get only one-cent profit on a bottle of milk now," said W. Palmer, president of the association. "We have been asking for two cents. If they give us what we ask it may cause a loss to dairies, but Safeway prices will have to be met."

PRESENT PRICE INDEX

A Safeway official explained that the Vancouver reduction would be on present delivered price, and not two cents under any new price distributors might make if the provincial government decontrols milk above the producer level.

A decision on Safeway's application for a dairy plant in Vancouver is expected from the B.C. Milk Board in about 10 days.

The cheaper milk, to sell for 20 cents in Vancouver, will be in paper cartons.

Blood Bank Open for Jubilee Area Donors

U.S. Vessel Surveyed For West Coast Run

CP Interests May Snap Up Ex-Army Ship

A new ship, licensed to carry 25 passengers and 250 tons of cargo, may be purchased within 24 hours by Canadian Pacific Steamships for the West Coast of Vancouver Island run.

Mv. Pomare, built in 1945 for the United States Army, arrived in Victoria from Long Beach, Calif., today. She was to be pulled up the slipway at Victoria Machinery Depot's No. 1 plant for survey.

It is understood that if she lives up to specifications claimed by her present owners, she will be purchased immediately.

Officials of the CPR legal and purchasing departments in Vancouver were expected to arrive later to inspect the ship.

Federal government steamboat inspection officers will also survey the ship before approving it for operation in Canadian waters.

MEXICAN OWNERS

Mv. Pomare, at present owned by a Mexican firm, is of 510 tons, 140 feet long, of wooden construction. She was built for the U.S. army as a mail-cargo-passenger ship in the Aleutians, and, if in sound shape, should be an ideal ship for the West Coast.

Pomare is expected to be licensed to carry 25 day passengers. CPR has made no announcement on its policy regarding passengers, pending final approval of the ship, but it is likely passenger service will be offered.

SHE'LL BE PRINCESS

The ship, if accepted by the CPR, will be rechristened a "Princess," but the name has not been officially decided.

Pomare is capable of 12 knots, and would provide a regularly scheduled service on the West Coast. Refrigeration space will be installed, and she will be thoroughly re-fitted, before going into service.

Since Princess Maquinna, veteran of the West Coast, was withdrawn from service in September, 1952, due to old age, CPR has maintained a temporary service with MV Veta C, chartered from Frank Waterhouse (Canada) Ltd. Veta C was not licensed to carry passengers or equipped with refrigeration space.

WAITRESS OVERCOME BY GAS WHILE TELEPHONING FOR AID

A city waitress was victim of an accidental gassing today.

Mrs. Jean J. MacEachen, 43, was overcome by fumes at the Cosmopolitan Quick Lunch, 1308 Government, at 7 a.m.

She was revived by fire department inhalator and treated at Jubilee Hospital.

Mrs. MacEachen smelled gas when she arrived at the cafe, and she was overcome while telephoning for assistance.

She had reached C. A. Pearson of the B.C. Electric gas department who warned the fire department inhalator crew which rushed to her aid.

DEATH SENTENCE APPEAL DELAYED

Pavlukoff Hearing for Vancouver; Fairweather to Fight Case Here

Appeal of Walter Pavlukoff against the death sentence imposed April 1 by Mr. Justice A. M. Manson, will not be heard in Victoria, as scheduled

B.C. Court of Appeal, which today began a new session in Victoria, discussed the Pavlukoff case and decided to transverse the appeal to its next Vancouver sitting.

The appeal will be heard there late in May.

Postponement of the appeal was found necessary when Walter Owen, QC, crown counsel, notified the court that necessary appeal books would not be ready until May 15.

That is the day on which the court is scheduled to adjourn and move to Vancouver, where sittings will begin May 19.

Pavlukoff was convicted of murdering Vancouver bank manager Sydney Petrie in a hold-up August 25, 1947. He is sentenced to be hanged June 23.

T. F. Hurley, who appeared as his counsel at the assize court trial, will make the appeal.

PERSONAL APPEAL

The Appeal Court has fixed April 21 as the tentative date for hearing the appeal here of Albert Fairweather, now serving 10 years on a manslaughter conviction.

Fairweather, who was originally convicted of murder and scheduled to hang, intends to appeal in person the sentence imposed on him after a second trial, in which he was found guilty on the lesser charge.

'TOBACCO ROAD' CASE

Appeal by the Crown against a County Court judge's decision that "Tobacco Road," as staged by a Vancouver repertory group, was a proper and decent show, is to be heard here May 4.

Judge J. A. McGeer quashed a police magistrate's conviction of members of the "Tobacco Road" cast and its director, who were charged by Vancouver police's morality squad with staging a lewd and obscene show.

The Avon Theatre Group, which produced the controversial show, has been making plans to restage it since Judge McGeer's decision was handed down.

Soft Music With Meals For Civil Servants

Provincial government employees soon will have music with their meals.

Plans are now underway to install a "background music" system in the government cafeteria on Elliot Street. It is expected to be in operation by the end of the month.

It will be installed on a 30-day trial basis.

The music, which will be wired through a special system from Vancouver's CJOR, will be suited to the time of day.

GIFT TRADERS ON GRIDDLE OF SUSPENSE

If Victoria gets a preserved whale or a small Alberta foothill in return for a stuffed buffalo being shipped soon to the mayor of Calgary, the Chamber of Commerce tourist group here will not be too surprised.

City businessman, Courtney Haddock, who dumped the hairy bison into the hands of the tourist officials, is hoping that the gag won't backfire. "It would be a real problem if they sent us a live buffalo in exchange," he says.

The taxidermist's showpiece will go by road and water to Vancouver, and will be flown to the prairies by CPA.

Seaman Charged After Two Hurt In Night Crash

Carlo Rupert Asquini, a young merchant seaman who gave his address as the Seaman's Institute, pleaded not guilty today at a special sitting of Esquimalt police court to a charge of dangerous driving arising from an overnight accident.

Esquimalt police said he was the driver of a car totally wrecked when it crashed into a telephone pole off Esquimalt Road near Macaulay. Impact broke the power pole.

Asquini's home town is Edmonton, Alta.

York Actors Are Hard-Working Lot, With Flair for Memorization and More Menial Tasks

By PETE LOUDON

If you can memorize three different scripts a day, exist on coffee, cigarettes and the odd sandwich, paint scenery, build sets, sweep floors, arrange lighting, and keep it up for 12 hours a day without taking on the characteristics of a healthy mushroom, you too can be an actor.

Of course you have also got to be able to act and you must love your work because you'll have to forsake everything else in life, including a glimpse of the sun and regular paydays.

Bob Tabor, 24, Texas born, son of a construction foreman, college man, eight-jump vet of the American 11th Airborne . . . he got the bug. A bachelor of science in drama, he married a graduate of the school of journalism, a handy device, saving Bob the cost of paying publicity writers when he is acting.

Bob and his dark-eyed wife Anna Noel are members of the York Theatre Company here, have been since it started in September, 1952. They have an apartment near the theatre but Bob at least, rarely sees much of it.

Rehearsals start at 10 in the morning at the York . . . and you are supposed to know your lines, so Bob struggles out of the sack at 8.30 daily, props a script against the coffee pot and studies his way through breakfast.

From 10 to half-past-noon Bob and the others in the cast work on the play to be staged two weeks hence.

The noon break lasts half an hour, then director Ian Thorne or new co-director Arthur Coe Gray picks up the lash again and the cast of the show for the next week takes its place.

At 5.30 Bob goes home to his wife and while he eats she can just see the wave in his hair over the evening script that he must know flawlessly if he is in the show that night. Often as not he is. If he isn't actually in the cast, Bob is the dim shape on the spotlights, the extra stage-hand or maybe the off-stage sound effects.

Make-up time for the evening show is 7.30, and Bob has learned that you can prop a script on the make-up table and make these minutes count too.

The show is over usually by 10.30 and, except for Saturday when there are sets to "strike," new sets to make ready, the actors can go home. If they don't lag on the way, there just might be time to study another script before bedtime.

This is work? Well, try rehearsing all day, says Bob. Elizabeth Knight graces chesterfield. Michael Rothery and Gwen Downes look on.

Between rehearsals and on week-ends Bob helps June Gillespie with the scenery. Bob says this is as close as he gets to painting the town.

Co-directors Ian Thorne and Arthur Coe Gray help Bob with make-up before show . . . when most husbands are settling down with the evening paper.

At last . . . show's over. Now Bob and wife Anna can relax. Before turning in there is time for coffee, a smoke . . . and glance over next week's script.

Starting Small Business Has Plenty of Hazards

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

There is no question that "big business" is in the saddle in present-day America. Is it wise for a man to consider going into business for himself? A man writes:

Hurlock

(Q)—"I am a young man of 34, ambitious and hard working. Everyone seems to like me and people say I have a nice personality. Ever since I left high school, I have been working for one of the large chain grocery stores. I am now manager of one of the stores, and I feel this is as far as I can go. We have saved some money, as we have only one child, and my wife has just inherited a small sum from her parents. She is very anxious to have me open up a store of my own, as she feels I will never get any further than I am now. I rather hesitate, because I have seen so many of the small stores go under. I wonder if it is wise to take the risk. What is your opinion?"

(A)—I must agree with you rather than with your wife. Some types of independent stores do very well in American cities and towns, but independent grocery stores face especially stiff competitions.

If you were able to open up an electrical repair shop, for example, where you would have no real competition with chain stores, it would be another story. But since your training and experience have been in the grocery business, I should advise you to be very hesitant about following your wife's advice.

You might explore the possibilities for a successful business in the neighborhood where people know you. Perhaps in a smaller town you could go into partnership with a person who has a well-established business and where there is not too keen competition with the chain stores.

Because of the high cost of food today, more and more housewives are buying their food in the chain stores. They can afford to sell at lower prices because of their tremendous volume of business and because of their self-service policy.

Even if your present customers like you and have confidence in you, there is certainly no guarantee that they would follow you to a store of your own, if you had to charge higher prices for your food. Think seriously about this before risking your savings and your wife's inheritance.

Dr. Hurlock will help you with family problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You Are Helping to Pay Costs of Unhappy Living

I recently received an interesting booklet from the Family Service Association of America which is called "The High Cost of Unhappy Living." This not only emphasizes the cost in money to the individual and the community of the results of unhappy home life, but also the cost in poor work, poor social adjustment and warped lives.

It gives case histories of marriages which could have been saved had the man and woman received expert help early enough and some stories of marriages which were saved. It calls to our attention what every educator, minister, trained social worker and psychologist knows — namely that problem children and juvenile delinquents usually have their background in an unhappy home life. This may be due to money worries, crowded lodgings, inadequate play facilities, but most of all to deep rooted antagonisms and friction in the home, usually between the husband and wife.

Dr. William Menninger, famous psychiatrist, says "Many surveys show that 60 to 80 per cent of all dismissals in industry are due to social incompetence and only 20 to 40 per cent to technical incompetence." Nothing has yet been said about health, but all physicians know that home turmoil can give a person a headache, cause a rash or a thumping heart.

Think these facts over. Remember that happiness is more dramatically correlated with your health, your success and your personality, than you can ever know. Also remember to support those organizations which give expert free help to those who need it and cannot afford to pay for it. You already pay for the victims of lack of it.

And here is tomorrow's menu, the last day of my nine-day diet:

BREAKFAST

One poached egg.
One thin slice whole wheat toast.
One cup coffee.

LUNCHEON

Salad made of shredded lettuce and one medium tomato (lemon for dressing).
Two tablespoons cottage cheese.
One-half grapefruit.

DINNER

Broiled liver.
One portion spinach.
One portion beets.
One glass skimmed milk.
One orange.

Helps the Handicapped

Rehabilitation of injured and sick bodies and minds among both veterans and the civilian population was the topic of discussion at a meeting Monday of Local Council of Women. Guest speaker was Gwynne Gilmore, medical social director of Veterans' Hospital.

Mr. Gilmore spoke on rehabilitation of all types of disabilities, stressing the value of occupational therapy in bringing damaged muscles back to usefulness. He pointed out the possibilities of the handicapped person being placed in some type of job as part of the rehabilitation scheme.

A complete and efficient staff was more important than fine buildings, he considered, but added that the centre should be near a hospital for facilitation of care and availability of equipment.

"It is advisable to pool resources of experts, at least in consultation," said Mr. Gilmore. One in nine of the civilian population need care, he told the meeting. This type of care costs $365 per month for a sleeping-in patient, he reported. A discussion and question period followed Mr. Gilmore's talk.

A paper on work of research in mental illness was given by Miss E. Gray, who also introduced the guest. Vice-president Mrs. E. E. Livesay presided.

It was reported the "early Victoria" tea, originally to be held Friday this week, has been postponed to April 27. Miss E. Hart and Mrs. J. Price are co-conveners. Miss Madge Wolfenden will open the tea, to be held in the Douglas Room at Hudson's Bay Company store.

First project to be undertaken will be a sale of rummage in the Public Market on Saturday.

Opening lead—♣ A

South would have had an easy time at three no-trump if he could have managed to reach that contract played from his own side. Even North might have made three no-trump by careful play. The actual contract of five diamonds was reasonable enough, and led to very interesting declarer's play.

For lack of a better opening lead, West opened the ace of clubs and then continued with another club. South had a problem immediately. What is his proper discard from the dummy at the second trick?

After some thought, South decided to discard a low spade from the dummy. "A nice useful discard," West remarked amiably.

South said nothing, but won the second club with the king in his own hand, drew two rounds of trumps with the queen and jack, and then led a low heart towards dummy. West could not afford to take the ace of hearts at once, since then South would eventually get a spade discard on dummy's king of hearts. Hence West played the nine of hearts to force out dummy's king.

Declarer didn't want to take the spade finesse, since East's failure to respond to the opening bid indicated that he held a worthless hand. South had a plan to make the opponents take the spade finesse for him.

After winning the first heart trick with dummy's king, declarer returned to his own hand with a trump. He then cashed his queen of clubs to discard a low heart from dummy. With the stage thus set he could afford to lead the queen of hearts from his hand, forcing West to win with the ace.

At this point West was helpless. If he returned a heart or a club, dummy could ruff while South discarded the queen of spades. If West returned a spade instead, South would get a free finesse. In either case, South was sure to make his contract.

It is interesting to see that South could not have made his contract if he had discarded a low heart from dummy at the second trick. If this were done, West would make the first round of hearts with his ace and get out safely with another heart. South would then eventually have to lose a spade trick.

By RAY SIDAWAY

"One Night of Love" is one of the selections Lucille Norman will sing tonight on "Hollywood Music Hall" on KIRO at 7.30. She plays hostess to Constance Shirley, who will play "Kitten on the Keys."

Johnny Dollar, the insurance investigator with an action-packed expense account, talks to a "dead" woman when he investigates "The Madison Matter" on "Yours Truly, Johnny Dollar" tonight on KIRO at 6.

Dollar learns about a dead woman who should have been alive and meets another one who tells him she's dead.

Al gets a job as a garage mechanic, and Irma finds herself in a dilemma when she goes on a date with someone else and his car breaks down in front of Al's garage on tonight's edition of "My Friend Irma" on KIRO at 6.30.

Dean Martin, Jerry Lewis and their special guest, Linda Darnell, present a drama of shipwrecked men in the South Pacific, on the comics' radio show tonight on KOMO at 9. This is Miss Darnell's first appearance on the show.

When two Hollywood stunt men stage a fake fist fight at the corner of Hollywood and Vine, emcee Art Linkletter of "People Are Funny" will have a contestant there to try to stop the fracas on tonight's show, heard on KIRO at 7. The contestant will suddenly discover that the suit he put on in the dressing room is one of the "break-away" variety, which falls to the ground at the slightest touch.

Another contestant of the "Milquetoast" type will attempt to reconstruct his life from a "mouse" to that of a "lion."

AN AGE OF GREATNESS

No. 86—'Let Tyrants Fear'

The defeated, diminished Armada escaped into the North Sea, looking towards either Scotland or Norway for doubtful refuge. Remnants of the English fleet, unprovisioned, out of ammunition, followed them to jeer, unable to offer the battle which might have led to Sidonia's surrender. And then came gale. The English fled, for port—the Spaniards vanished—into mystery. Meanwhile the land armies of England gathered. At Tilbury the Queen rode among her soldiers, declaiming the famous words: "Let tyrants fear," and "I know I have but the body of a weak and feeble woman; but I have the heart of a king, and a king of England, too, and think foul scorn that Parma, or Spain, or any Prince of Europe, should dare to invade the borders of my realms. There were 75,000 trained men in England, yet on this very day when, but for the fireships and the Dutch blockade, Parma's invasion forces should have been marching on London, a mere 4,000 were at Tilbury. The Queen made her famous speech as the Armada was having what was left of its pride washed away—in the seas around the Hebrides.

OUTSTANDING OPPORTUNITY

The following all included in one price:

(1) Approximately 800 feet of waterfront with sandy beach, very warm swimming and excellent fishing.

(2) Approximately 27 acres of well treed land with highway frontage.

(3) Main house has beautiful living room 30x20, dining room, five bedrooms, modern electric kitchen, two bathrooms, hot-water oil heat, double garage, all in excellent condition. Would make an outstanding lodge.

(4) New house of four rooms. Fully modern.

(5) Well-known coffee shop, restaurant and drive-in housed in a new, beautiful, architect-designed building fully equipped with the most modern food dispensing equipment. Equipment alone cost over $10,000. Building and equipment cost the owner $35,000 and could be easily rented for $200 per month if the purchaser did not wish to operate it himself. This business is well removed from the homes on the property and would not in any way distract from the waterfront property. The rental of the restaurant and four-room home would bring a yearly revenue of at least $3,000 per year at the same time give the purchasers the main house for their own gracious living.

All this situated in one of the most popular resort areas on Vancouver Island.

False Teeth Need
A Special Cleanser

Don't Brush Your Plates!
Soak Them in Polident
As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, banish Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules.
1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath".
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.
Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter. D-133

THE LADY WAS EJECTED

Winnipeg Favors Rent Decontrol in Hectic Tiff

WINNIPEG (CP) — City council voted 9 to 8 in favor of immediate abolition of rent controls in Winnipeg during a stormy meeting Monday night which ended with a hysterical woman showering curses and obscene language at aldermen from the council chamber gallery.

"This is worse than Russia. . . . They're trying to run our rooming-houses and they know nothing about it. . . . You . . . are running our property for us . . ." screamed the woman, a landlady who mistakenly believed aldermen had voted to retain rent controls. She was forcibly ejected by two men.

Meanwhile, a large delegation of landlords and rooming-house keepers clapped and cheered aldermen who opposed rent controls. Shouts of "you're full of baloney," and "drop dead," greeted those who wanted controls retained.

Use Guns to End Uprising

HAVANA, Cuba (BUP).—Tension is mounting in Havana, after police used gunfire and clubs to break up anti-government demonstrations by university students.

One student was shot in the arm, another in the leg, and a woman bystander in the thigh in the demonstrations Monday. Ten to 15 students were injured by clubs. Several students and one opposition political leader were arrested.

The students' federation has called a strike of indefinite duration at Havana University and the police are on the alert for further outbreaks.

The students were protesting against the alleged mistreatment of 39 men held for trial as participants in a plot to seize the great Columbia army barracks in the suburbs April 5.

$10,000 Over Target

Victoria was one of 28 B.C. centres that pushed Red Cross campaign targets over the top during March. The city and district goal of $70,500 was surpassed by more than $10,000.

The provincial quota is still $80,000 short of fulfillment, but although the 1953 drive is officially ended, it is expected late returns will meet the objective.

HOME GARDEN

As garden subjects the large type daffodils are indispensible—they have the quality and the substance which stands up well in the winds and sunshine of spring. We have gazed at the magnificent blooms of such giants as Mulatto with the lemon colored trumpet; Kanchenjunga and Roxane, both enormous whites; and old favorites like Fortune and John Evelyn measuring five inches across.

Hilda

The stunning contrast of a fiery orange cup and huge creamy perianth as in Scarlet Leader is a breath - taking sight in the garden when combined with the soft velvet of blood red wallflowers.

But for decoration in the home or in secluded corners of the rock garden, the smaller varieties and the miniatures receive their share of the glory that belongs to daffodil time.

Ranking high among the smaller flowered varieties as a cut flower for arrangements, as well as for a special nook in the garden is Thalia, a delightful snow-white variety, bearing two to three flowers to each stem. Then there are a great many of the small cupped Narcissi which give the touch of elegance and grace needed among cut flowers, as well as contributing color and fragrance. Among these are Verger, Actaea, and the large group of poetaz Narcissi, which latter bear many blooms on each stem.

It is among the so-called rock garden daffodils, however, that we see the real miniatures—the treasures whose beauties are not perhaps apparent to a casual glance. One reason why every daffodil lover should grow a few of these dwarfs is their longer season of flowering. The earliest will open in December, and the latest by the end of May. In between is a wide range of forms and colors, all charming.

Another advantage of the miniatures is that, while quite hardy, they take kindly to being raised in pots, without heat, and may then be brought into the house to be enjoyed at close range. Some are admiddedly more difficult of culture than others, but the local daffodil specialists will guide us on that point.

Many gardeners have asked why their planting of the variety Irene Copeland (a double white with yellow flecks) has decreased in number instead of increasing, as other varieties. One of our local specialists tells me that while it is an excellent flower and in great demand, it is not what they call a "good-doer" in this area, and gardeners should replenish their planting with a few bulbs of fresh stock each year.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

By EDWIN JORDAN, MD

Operation to Correct Bowlegs May Be Successful in Children

In most cases deformity of the legs, such as bowing of knock-knees, are the result of soft bones during childhood coming from rickets, which is a vitamin-deficiency disease. Most such cases could have been prevented by supplying the needed vitamins during the times of year when the sun is weak.

Q.—Can you tell me if it is dangerous to have an operation for bowlegs, or is there an exercise that will correct them? A.B.

A.—Nothing is said in the question about the age of the person with bowlegs. In a grown-up it is rather rare and also hazardous to try to attempt operations to correct bowlegs, but in childhood sometimes corrections can be made. There is no exercise which will be particularly helpful.

Q.—Will you please discuss a prolapsed colon and its treatment? H.M.

A.—This means there is a sagging of the intestines. Frequently it produces no symptoms which need correction, but sometimes physicians recommend corsets or possibly some other measures. Few surgeons recommend operation except in the most exaggerated cases.

Q.—I have occasional attacks of pain in my chest, but the doctors tell me it is not heart trouble. What other conditions could cause this pain? O.M.

Q.—A vast number of things besides heart trouble can cause pain in the chest. It can be the result of neuritis, or some form of muscular rheumatism; it can be from indigestion or something else in the abdominal organs reflected up to the chest. It can result from difficulty with the vertebrae of the backbone; indeed, in some cases it appears to be a reflection of worry rather than any identifiable physical cause.

★ ★ ★

Q.—Is it possible to have more than one attack of chicken pox? My daughter is supposed to have had it twice. Mrs. H.W.

A.—Second attacks of chicken pox are rare, but apparently have been reported. It is also possible that one of the two attacks was some other contagious disease which resembled chicken pox in its symptoms.

Q.—My sister has a fatty tumor, but the doctor told her it would probably never bother her, and not to have an operation unless it did. What are these fatty tumors? Reader,

A.—A tumor made up of fatty tissue is called a lipoma. These tumors are quite common and as a rule cause no trouble, and do not need to be removed. Their cause is not known.

Subsidized Salt Spring Ferry Hinted

The B.C. government may call for immediate tenders for operation of a Vesuvius Bay-Crofton ferry service.

"I have not made up my mind but I am thinking seriously of calling for tenders," P. A. Gaglardi, minister of public works, admitted today.

The minister explained the Crofton-Salt Spring service would require subsidy by the provincial government.

"There aren't even wharves available at the moment," he said. "But they are a federal government responsibility."

The minister indicated Ottawa authorities already have authorized construction of the necessary wharf facilities, providing the provincial government approves the ferry subsidy.

Crofton is a log assembly point near Duncan, on the Vancouver Island coast.

Mrs. Houde Stricken

MONTREAL (BUP) — Mrs. Camillien Houde, wife of the mayor of Montreal, is reported "resting quietly" today in the neurological institute after suffering a stroke. She was admitted Friday.

Ex-Wrestler Lifts Grand Piano Off Man

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Former wrestler Leon Blount, 42, lifted a 1,100-pound grand piano off a man crushed beneath it and then pulled the man clear as he braced the piano with one hand. O'Dell Wyatt suffered undetermined injuries Monday when the piano fell on him at a warehouse.

TWO FOUND DEAD IN CAR

VANCOUVER (CP) — The bodies of a man and woman, victims of carbon monoxide poisoning, were found in Vancouver's Stanley Park Monday.

Police said the victims were Anita Simister, 20-year-old mother of three children, and 37-year-old Leonard Keast. The car's exhaust pipe was broken when it was backed against a rock and fumes apparently seeped into the car.

Stubborn Fire Hits Hospital

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—A stubborn wood, cork and tar fire Monday gutted the basement floor of a new $650,000 administration building at the provincial mental hospital at nearby Essondale.

Unofficial estimates placed the damage at $100,000. No one was injured in the blaze, battled for three hours by the institution's fire department.

Workmen were still putting finishing touches on the four-story concrete building when the fire broke out. It is believed to have started from a cigarette butt.

The flames caught hold in building materials, tar barrels and cork insulation. Dense black smoke made it impossible for the firemen to battle the blaze at close quarters and they played their hoses on the first floor to keep it from spreading.

Indians Bashed Two Children to Death

YREKA, Calif. (AP) — Allie Davis and Louise Steve, Indians, were found guilty Monday of killing their two small children by bashing them against the floor of their house at a drinking party October 15. The jury recommended life imprisonment for both.

Parklands Bus Route To PUC for Decision

Refusal by B.C. Electric bus authorities to act on Esquimalt council request for bus service to school children in the Parklands area will be referred to the B.C. Public Utilities Commission.

The matter has been under negotiation between council and the BCER for some months. Council has received petitions from parents in the area stating that school-bound children are constantly threatened by heavy traffic to and from naval construction projects.

Recently the council pointed out to the bus company that an "extra" bus sits idle near Colville Road every morning, and suggested it be diverted to serve the children. The BCER replied that revenue from such a route would be inadequate for the service.

Monday night a further letter was received from the transportation company suggesting that the route might be covered if the situation were to change and the income increased.

Clr. G. K. Sammon intimated that this was a stalling tactic. The council decided it would make application to the government to force the service. Such a step is indicated by the franchise of the bus company where any dispute arises.

Dock Chief Out on Bail

NEW YORK (AP)—Dock boss Joseph P. Ryan was released on $3,500 bail Monday, accused of milking his AFL International Longshoremen's Association of $11,390 for personal luxuries.

The ILA president was tense and nervous as he pleaded innocent. He had ducked into a Roman Catholic church to say a prayer before surrendering to District Attorney Frank S. Hogan.

No trial date was set on a 30-count larceny indictment that could land the 69-year-old Ryan behind bars for the rest of his life. Conviction on all counts carries a maximum of 165 years in prison.

The indictment was a direct result of last January's state crime commission hearings. Commission evidence pictured Ryan's ILA as a rackets-ridden haven of thieves and murderers.

RCMP Hunt Dynamite Caps in Montreal

MONTREAL (BUP) — The RCMP raced against time today to find 15 dynamite caps believed hidden in a suburban park which attracts hundreds of youngsters daily.

The detonators could blow a child's hand off if banged against a rock.

An officer said the 15 caps were part of a 35-cap package stolen Sunday from a construction project in Ville St. Laurent. Twenty caps were found by children Monday and were spotted by alarmed parents before any accident occurred.

Swetlishoff Ends Hunger Strike

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Peter Swetlishoff, convicted Doukhobor arsonist, has ended a three-week hunger strike in the penitentiary here, officials said today.

He started serving a four-year term in February, 1950, for acts of terror and violence in the Kootenays as a member of the fanatical Sons of Freedom sect.

Indian May Go to Coronation

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Canadian Coronation Committee will probably study the advisability of sending a native Indian in full regalia to London for the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent told the Commons today.

MacPhail Barred From Own Track

BALTIMORE (AP)—Larry MacPhail was barred temporarily today from the Bowie race track, of which he is president, for "conduct detrimental to racing."

The Maryland Racing Commission ordered the stormy sports figure "suspended from privileges" of the track pending a hearing April 23.

Striking Grain Handlers Delay Action

VANCOUVER (CP)—Disputants in the 58-day-old grain strike at Vancouver and New Westminster appear to have adopted a "wait-and-see" attitude on an offer from Vancouver Mayor Fred Hume to mediate the strike.

Officials of the CIO Grain Workers' Union, representing the 250 grain handlers in their wage dispute, said they would probably meet Wednesday to study the proposal. (See story Page 3.)

Yanks Drop Opening Game; Brooklyn Wins

NEW YORK (AP) — Alex Kellner shut out the New York Yankees with five hits today, 5-0, as the Philadelphia Athletics beat Vic Raschi, their old hoodoo, to spoil the world champions' opening bid for a fifth straight pennant before 23,534 fans. Ray Murray and Allie Clark hit homers off Raschi in a three-run fifth inning.

BROOKLYN (AP)—Brilliant relief pitching by Joe Black and mighty home runs by Roy Campanella and Duke Snider gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 8-5 victory over Pittsburgh today in the National League opener at Ebbets Field. A chilled crowd of 12,433 saw Black force Ralph Kiner to fly to center in the ninth inning with two on base. Black gave up two hits in six innings after relieving Carl Erskine in the fourth.

House Cheers Tax Slashes

Butler's 'Incentive' Budget Promises Cheer and More Sugar

LONDON (CP)—Britain today reduced income taxes on many consumer items in a sugar-coated "incentive" budget that even promised the end of sugar rationing soon.

The chancellor of the exchequer, Richard Butler, announced the reductions, most of them effective immediately, to a crowded House of Commons.

To prolonged government cheers, he said: "We step out of the confines of restriction to the almost forgotten but beckoning prospect of freer endeavor and greater rewards for everyone."

In a budget showing that for the first time since the war Britons will be free from new taxes for the coming fiscal year, Butler announced a cut in the standard rate of income tax.

The standard rate of income tax—at present nine shillings and six pence in the pound after all allowances—will be reduced by sixpence in the pound.

The income tax cut will cost the treasury £73,000,000, Butler estimated.

The budget reduced by 25 per cent the purchase tax on a wide range of consumer goods including cars, refrigerators, washing machines and other household articles. This tax now varies from 33⅓ per cent to 100 per cent.

The 30-per-cent excess profits tax on industry will be ended Jan. 1.

TO ENCOURAGE INDUSTRY

To encourage modernization and expansion of industry, Butler reinstated tax rebates for business men who use their profits to improve their capital assets.

From now on firms will be able to get tax rebates of 20 per cent of the cost of new machinery, 10 per cent of the cost of new roads and buildings and 40 per cent of the costs of new mines.

Butler estimated the total reduction of taxation would cost the treasury £169,000,000.

The entertainment tax on cricket was abolished.

In contrast with the 1951-52 fiscal year when Britain recorded an over-all deficit of £436,000,000, Butler this year budgetted for a surplus of £279,000,000.

One more form of relief for hard-pressed Britons was forecast by the chancellor when he said that the government soon will be able to end sugar rationing.

He said that Britain's national economy has pulled itself up from a trade deficit with the rest of the world of £398,000,000 ($1,114,400,000) in 1951 to a surplus in 1952 of £291,000,000.

This, Butler declared, came close to his goal of a surplus of £300,000,000.

THE Political Pot

Mayor Claude Harrison today threw his support behind Social Credit candidate Percy Wright, assistant city clerk.

Mr. Wright was nominated to contest one of three Victoria seats at a Socred nominating convention at the Crystal Garden Monday night.

The mayor who had been considered a Socred candidate earlier, said this morning he's glad to see Mr. Wright get the nomination.

"He's a respectable young man without the back-biting, mud-throwing characteristics of some politicians," said Mayor Harrison.

"I hope he's elected. It looks to me like a new era in politics. People will use their intelligence and think things out without being rude and sarcastic to one another. There will not be the same venting of personal spleen."

Rumors are still persisting that Mayor Harrison may run as an independent candidate. But the mayor is remaining silent, and his statement supporting Mr. Wright seems to make the possibility remote.

Allied Planes Guard Convoy Of Sick PWs

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Allied planes flew guard today over the route of the first Red motor convoy carrying sick and wounded UN war prisoners slowly toward freedom.

An air force spokesman said the air sentinels and special secret precautions made a mistake bombing virtually impossible.

The reconnaissance planes patrolled through the day over thick clouds hiding North Korean roads. The Reds said the 20-vehicle convoy was the first to start the long trip from North Korean prison camps to Panmunjom, where 600 Allied POWs, including at least one Canadian, will be traded for 5,800 Chinese and Communists beginning Monday.

Two more convoys were to leave North Korea Wednesday at daybreak.

The UN probably will start moving its 700 Chinese and 5,100 North Korean sick and wounded by train this week-end.

A South Korean defense ministry spokesman said the 450 South Koreans being returned will have to be "reindoctrinated" possibly for six months to free them from any effects of Communist teachings.

The Communists here, meanwhile, awaited a UN reply to their latest request for resumption of full-scale truce negotiations at Panmunjom.

Milk Price Cut by May 1 Said Unlikely

The provincial government has temporarily set aside its plan to remove milk controls above the producer level on May 1, according to an official of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association.

The spokesman for the association said he had been informed today that the government intended to give the matter further study before carrying out its plans to remove the controls.

"It is unlikely that any action will be taken to remove the controls until after the provincial elections," he said. "This was indicated to me today by government officials."

This means that Safeway and other chain stores will not be able to reduce the price of milk by one or two cents, he said. "They cannot do anything until the price is decontrolled by the government."

Several other dairymen in the Victoria area said they did not expect the government to decontrol the price of milk.

(See story, page 13, on reduced milk price question.)

Estella Regains Monday's Losses

Making good all Monday's loss, Estella traded at 59 on Vancouver stock exchange this afternoon, a gain of seven cents on the day.

Home Oil steadied after dropping $1.25 on early sales. At the close Home was $8 bid, $8.50 asked.

Other closing quotations: Del Rio $3.20, Okalta $2.50, United Oil $1.28, Quatsino Copper 42½, Western Tungsten $2.55, Canadian Western Lumber $9.25.

Helicopter Lifts Two Survivors in Cascades

SEATTLE (AP)—A chartered airliner that vanished before dawn today on a flight to Seattle with 22 soldiers and a crew of three was found smashed in the Cascade foothills and helicopters immediately started the rescue of survivors.

Two were picked up in the first hour. How many others there might be was not known, but one of the rescued said he knew only of four dead.

Earlier an air search team reported one person, believed to be the stewardess of the plane, walked down the snow-covered hillside. She was the only woman aboard the Miami Airline DC-3.

The crash scene was at the 3,000-foot level, about 10 miles east of the village of Selleck, which was the co-ordinating centre for the search. It is 40 miles southeast of Seattle.

The twin-engine carrier, operated by Miami Airline, Inc., of Florida, was bringing military passengers to Seattle on a special charter flight.

Most of the soldiers were believed to be heading overseas. Soldiers flying to Seattle normally are making a quick hop to catch a troopship after staying home as long as possible.

The plane was believed to have cleared the rugged Cascade range—where a foot of new snow was reported overnight.

A large concentration of aircraft scoured Stampede Pass, about 60 miles southeast of Seattle.

A cryptic message at 2.07 a.m. from the pilot said the plane was losing altitude and was down to 4,500 feet.

The final radio report was at 2.22 a.m. The pilot was uncertain of his position.

Stewardess Thrown Clear Of Airliner

Survivor Tells Dramatic Story

SEATTLE (AP) — The first survivor picked up by helicopter today after the crash of a Seattle-bound air transport in the Cascade foothills southeast of here told a dramatic story of survival.

Mrs. Adra Long of Berkeley, Calif., 28-year-old stewardess, was picked up after she had walked eight miles through snow.

"It was snowing hard," she related, in describing the crash shortly after 2.22 a.m., just after the plane had crossed the Cascade Mountains summit.

"I could tell that the left engine was not operating right, but I wasn't alarmed.

"Suddenly the sign flashed for the passengers to fasten their safety belts. I realized something was wrong. When I awoke after the crash, I was still sitting in my chair. It had been thrown clear of the plane."

2 More Douk Homes, Hall Put to Torch

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Fire-raiding terrorists added two Doukhobor homes and a community hall to their list of burnings in the West Kootenays early today. Thirteen other homes were destroyed Sunday.

The new arson attacks took place at Glade, midway between Castlegar and Nelson, and at Appledale, where a community hall was destroyed.

Appledale is 50 miles northwest of Nelson and the scene of week-end fires when three houses, all occupied by Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, were destroyed.

The arsonists struck before dawn, and while the householders were asleep. All escaped without injury, police reported.

The new reign of terrorism in the Kootenays started two weeks ago when railway tracks were bombed and power lines dynamited.

In a daring night raid Sunday, terrorists put the torch to 13 homes in the Kootenays and observers fear a general Doukhobor insurrection may be close at hand.

The radicals blamed non-Doukhobors for the latest troubles, which began with the bombing of rail lines two weeks ago.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said here today that he expects to be able to make an announcement on the general Doukhobor question after study of a special report being prepared by the RCMP and members of the Doukhobor consultative committee.

In addition to reporting on week-end uprisings, the committee members will inform the attorney-general of the Doukhobors' reaction to a plan for relocation in Costa Rica in South America.

Mr. Bonner said he does not plan sending further police into the area "at the moment" because reinforcements were stationed there two months ago "in anticipation of trouble."

SECOND LIQUOR STORE TO STAY OPEN NIGHTS

A second night liquor store will be opened Friday in Victoria, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

The city's Humboldt Street liquor store, near the Empress Hotel, will be open until 11 p.m., along with the Johnson Street store.

Similarly in Vancouver a second store will be opened at night at Hastings and Main.

Complaints about traffic congestion in both cities in the vicinity of the night stores prompted the wider service.

It will necessitate doubling of staffs in both stores, Mr. Bonner said.

The Attorney-General said he has received reports that the "owl stores" have cut into the bootleggers' business considerably.

THE Political Pot

Mayor Claude Harrison today threw his support behind Social Credit candidate Percy Wright, assistant city clerk.

Mr. Wright was nominated to contest one of three Victoria seats at a Socred nominating convention at the Crystal Garden Monday night.

The mayor who had been considered a Socred candidate earlier, said this morning he's glad to see Mr. Wright get the nomination.

"He's a respectable young man without the back-biting, mud-throwing characteristics of some politicians," said Mayor Harrison.

"I hope he's elected. It looks to me like a new era in politics. People will use their intelligence and think things out without being rude and sarcastic to one another. There will not be the same venting of personal spleen."

Rumors are still persisting that Mayor Harrison may run as an independent candidate. But the mayor is remaining silent, and his statement supporting Mr. Wright seems to make the possibility remote.

Another keenly contested Social Credit nomination is shaping up in Esquimalt where William Chant, named a city candidate Monday night, was unsuccessful last year.

One hopeful already has announced he will seek the nomination, and there are three other "possibles."

William Falk, 390 Atkins Road, president of the View Royal SC group, definitely has his hat in the ring.

Others being mentioned as candidates are S. W. Findlay, Colwood electrical contractor; James Doran of Luxton, and Herbert Bruche, civil servant.

Esquimalt Socreds will choose their candidate Friday at 7.30 p.m. at Colwood Hall.

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele today squelched rumors he may seek the nomination.

"I'm not interested in the provincial field," he said.

Percy Wright, city Socred nominee, received the nomination on the day he started his 23rd year with the city.

Signs of Life In Wreckage Of Lost Plane

Some of 22 Troops, 3 Crew May Have Survived Cascade Crash

From AP and UP Dispatches

SELLECK, Wash. — The wreckage of a missing airliner has been found 10 miles east of Sellack, and the U.S. Coast Guard says some of the 25 persons aboard are alive.

A crippled air transport with 22 soldiers and a crew of three aboard vanished in that region early today after reporting it was losing altitude.

The twin-engine carrier, operated by Miami Airline, Inc., of Florida, was bringing military passengers to Seattle on a special charter flight.

Most of the soldiers were believed to be heading overseas. Soldiers flying to Seattle normally are making a quick hop to catch a troopship after staying home as long as possible.

The plane was believed to have cleared the rugged Cascade range—where a foot of new snow was reported overnight.

A large concentration of aircraft scoured Stampede Pass, about 60 miles southeast of Seattle.

A cryptic message at 2.07 a.m. from the pilot said the plane was losing altitude and was down to 4,500 feet.

The final radio report was at 2.22 a.m. The pilot was uncertain of his position.

The coast guard said the plane's final report indicated it was icing up, but not seriously. It had been making 140 miles an hour before the engine failed.

More than a dozen planes were in the search of the vast area northeastward from the Mount Rainier region.

Allied Planes Guard Convoy Of Sick PWs

First UN Troops Start Trip Back

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Allied planes flew guard today over the route of the first Red motor convoy carrying sick and wounded UN war prisoners slowly toward freedom.

An air force spokesman said the air sentinels and special secret precautions made a mistake bombing virtually impossible.

The reconnaissance planes patrolled through the day over thick clouds hiding North Korean roads. The Reds said the 20-vehicle convoy was the first to start the long trip from North Korean prison camps to Panmunjom, where 600 Allied POWs, including at least one Canadian, will be traded for 5,800 Chinese and Communists beginning Monday.

Two more convoys were to leave North Korea Wednesday at daybreak.

The UN probably will start moving its 700 Chinese and 5,100 North Korean sick and wounded by train this week-end.

A South Korean defense ministry spokesman said the 450 South Koreans being returned will have to be "reindoctrinated" possibly for six months to free them from any effects of Communist teachings.

The Communists here, meanwhile, awaited a UN reply to their latest request for resumption of full-scale truce negotiations at Panmunjom.

There was no indication when Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far East commander, would answer. He had told the Reds earlier that a renewal is the "second order of business" to the disabled POWs exchange.

Snow at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — More than eight inches of snow has fallen on Winnipeg overnight and today. More than five inches had fallen up to 6.30 a.m., CST. A further fall of three inches since then boosted the total to about 8.2 inches, heaviest fall of the year. Some melting occurred late in the morning, leaving only about for to five inches on the ground.

Peron Arrests 500 Merchants Charged With Violations

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UP) — More than 500 merchants charged with violating the Peron government's new price-freeze regulations were under arrest today, and it was announced that others were being rounded up in the provinces.

It was announced also that four slaughter houses had been closed for operating illegally.

An official statement said that five persons, including two women, had been arrested in the province as "rumor mongers" or violent critics of the government.

Nearly complete returns indicated a landslide victory for the government of President Juan D. Peron in elections for local officials in President Peron province.

Rabies in Cat

CALGARY (CP) — Rabies has been confirmed in a domestic cat at Keg River, federal veterinary officials said here Monday. A specimen was sent to the Lethbridge laboratory after the cat died.

The cat is believed to have been bitten by an infected wild animal in the area 350 miles northwest of Edmonton.

SECOND LIQUOR STORE TO STAY OPEN NIGHTS

A second night liquor store will be opened Friday in Victoria, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

The city's Humboldt Street liquor store, near the Empress Hotel, will be open until 11 p.m., along with the Johnson Street store.

Similarly in Vancouver a second store will be opened at night at Hastings and Main.

Complaints about traffic congestion in both cities in the vicinity of the night stores prompted the wider service.

It will necessitate doubling of staffs in both stores, Mr. Bonner said.

The Attorney-General said he has received reports that the "owl stores" have cut into the bootleggers' business considerably.

U.K. TAXES CUT IN NEW BUDGET

Commons Cheers Butler's 'Incentive' Program; May Take Sugar Off Ration

LONDON (CP)—Britain today reduced income taxes on many consumer items in a sugar-coated "incentive" budget that even promised the end of sugar rationing soon.

The chancellor of the exchequer, Richard Butler, announced the reductions, most of them effective immediately, to a crowded House of Commons.

To prolonged government cheers, he said: "We step out of the confines of restriction to the almost forgotten but beckoning prospect of freer endeavor and greater rewards for everyone."

In a budget showing that for the first time since the war Britons will be free from new taxes for the coming fiscal year, Butler announced a cut in the standard rate of income tax.

The standard rate of income tax—at present nine shillings and six pence in the pound after all allowances—will be reduced by sixpence in the pound.

The income tax cut will cost the treasury £73,000,000, Butler estimated.

The budget reduced by 25 per cent the purchase tax on a wide range of consumer goods including cars, refrigerators, washing machines and other household articles. This tax now varies from 33⅓ per cent to 100 per cent.

The 30-per-cent excess profits tax on industry will be ended Jan. 1.

To encourage modernization and expansion of industry, Butler reinstated tax rebates for business men who use their profits to improve their capital assets.

From now on firms will be able to get tax rebates of 20 per cent of the cost of new machinery, 10 per cent of the cost of new roads and buildings and 40 per cent of the costs of new mines.

Butler estimated the total reduction of taxation would cost the treasury £169,000,000.

The entertainment tax on cricket was abolished.

Budgets Surplus £279 Million

In contrast with the 1951-52 fiscal year when Britain recorded an over-all deficit of £436,000,000, Butler this year budgetted for a surplus of £279,000,000.

One more form of relief for hard-pressed Britons was forecast by the chancellor when he said that the government soon will be able to end sugar rationing.

Cheers greeted the chancellor's optimistic statement as he opened his speech.

He said the story at last year's budget was a bleak one of mounting trade deficit overseas and of inflation at home. Today's was different.

He said that Britain's national economy has pulled itself up from a trade deficit with the rest of the world of £398,000,000 ($1,114,400,000) in 1951 to a surplus in 1952 of £291,000,000.

This, Butler declared, came close to his goal of a surplus of £300,000,000.

"When I opened my first budget some 13 months ago I began, as is customary, with a review of the previous year," he said.

"The account I gave, which was as objective as I could make it, was inevitably a bleak one—a story of mounting deficit overseas and of inflation at home.

"The difference today is very striking."

Butler said he is not content with this improvement.

"We must keep up the progress. We must not forget that last year we were helped by U.S. defense aid. We received £120,000,000 and we are very grateful for it."

Seen in Gold, Dollar Reserves

Britain's improved financial position is reflected in the sterling area's gold and dollar reserves. These reserves are the backing for the sterling area's trade with the dollar world. The sterling area includes Britain and her Commonwealth and Empire, except Canada, and a few other countries with currency linked to the pound.

Butler said that at the end of March the sterling area's gold and dollar reserves stood at £774,000,000 ($2,167,000,000). That represented an improvement over the last 12 months of £167,000,000 ($467,600,000).

"This is an achievement of which Britain can be proud," the chancellor said.

Butler estimated total government expenditure for the 1953-54 financial year at £4,259,000,000 ($11,925,200,000) — an increase of £108,000,000,000 over the 1952-53 figure. He estimated revenue at £4,538,000,000, an increase of £99,000,000.

The chancellor said the food ministry has arranged to buy 1,000,000 tons of surplus Cuban sugar "at an advantageous price."

"Our purpose is to end sugar rationing and we shall now be able to do that soon," he declared.

More Homes, Hall Burned In Kootenays

New Commander

Today at Seoul Brig. Jean Victor Allard of Nicolet, Que., arrived to assume command of Canada's 25th Infantry Brigade in Korea. He was met at Seoul by Brig. M. P. Bogart of Toronto, his predecessor in command. The actual turnover of command is scheduled for next Monday.

Fire Raiders Hit Glade, Appledale in Dawn Strike

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Fire-raiding terrorists added two Doukhobor homes and a community hall to their list of burnings in the West Kootenays early today. Thirteen other homes were destroyed Sunday.

The new arson attacks took place at Glade, midway between Castlegar and Nelson, and at Appledale, where a community hall was destroyed.

Appledale is 50 miles northwest of Nelson and the scene of week-end fires when three houses, all occupied by Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, were destroyed.

The arsonists struck before dawn, and while the householders were asleep. All escaped without injury, police reported.

The new reign of terrorism in the Kootenays started two weeks ago when railway tracks were bombed and power lines dynamited.

In a daring night raid Sunday, terrorists put the torch to 13 homes in the Kootenays and observers fear a general Doukhobor insurrection may be close at hand.

The radicals blamed non-Doukhobors for the latest troubles, which began with the bombing of rail lines two weeks ago.

Fasting Swetlishoff Near Death

Meanwhile, it was reported here Monday night that Peter Swetlishoff, near death in the B.C. penitentiary as the result of a 32-day fast, may soon be released to thwart any move by the Sons of Freedom to make him a martyr.

Swetlishoff, convicted of taking part in terrorist raids in 1949, was sentenced to three months in prison in February, 1950, but has refused to accept his freedom since his term expired. During the three years he is reported to have fasted frequently.

Now his brother, William, plans to place him in the care of a Russian faith-healer in the Fraser Valley. The brother said Swetlishoff is too weak from his fasting to exercise any judgment.

Earlier, the Republic of Panama offered to take in the Sons of Freedom. In a telephone interview from Seattle, Rafael Fabreja, Panamanian ambassador, said his country would "go out of its way" to assist the Sons if they want to settle there.

Already under consideration by the provincial government is a plan to relocate the radicals in Costa Rica. It is estimated that the mass migration would cost $1,000,000.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said here today that he expects to be able to make an announcement on the general Doukhobor question after study of a special report being prepared by the RCMP and members of the Doukhobor consultatice committee.

In addition to reporting on week-end uprisings, the committee members will inform the attorney-general of the Doukhobors' reaction to a plan for relocation in Costa Rica in South America.

Mr. Bonner said he does not plan sending further police into the area "at the moment" because reinforcements were stationed there two months ago "in anticipation of trouble."

1 Killed as Troops End Tehran Riot

TEHRAN, Iran (CP) — One man was reported killed and 20 others were injured today when troops with fixed bayonets broke up demonstrations in various parts of the capital over Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's attempts to wrest control of the army from the Shah.

At least 60 persons were arrested.

The Majlis—lower house of parliament—failed by one member to raise a quorum and thus delayed until Thursday any legislative action on Mossadegs's proposal to curb the powers of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, including army control.

An atmosphere of explosive excitement gripped the city after an announcement by a group of army officers Monday night threatening an army revolt to protect the monarchy.

The crowds defied a military ban on demonstrations. They included supporters of both Mossadegh and the Shah.

Six Die in New Mau Mau Outbreak

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Fanatic Mau Mau tribesmen killed four white men and two African policemen Monday night in this terrorist-plagued British East African colony.

The four whites, members of the Kenya Regiment, were killed when a gang of about 100 from the blood-bath secret society attacked a platoon in the Fort Hall district.

A gang fo 12 Mau Maus shot the African policemen to death at a roadblock they were operating near Nairobi.

Ex-American Soldier Admits Spy Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kurt Ponger, Austrian-born former American soldier, pleaded guilty today to conspiring to spy on U.S. defense secrets for Russia.

Ponger, 39, entered his plea 24 hours after Otto Verber, his co-defendant and brother-in-law, pleaded guilty to the spy conspiracy.

Claxton Says Defense Program on Target

Trade Minister Says Obligations to NATO Will Be Met on Time; Pearkes Concerned

OTTAWA (CP) — Defense Minister Claxton predicted today that Canadian defense production is going to be deliberately stretched out or extended over a longer period than once planned.

But he also predicted that the three-year defense program he enunciated in February, 1951, will largely be fulfilled by a target date he set as June 30, 1954, and that all Canada's obligations to the North Atlantic alliance in Europe will be met on schedule.

This version of the defense effort, given to the Commons at the opening of a military debate, wasn't shared by Major-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, PC-Nanaimo. Before the noon adjournment halted him, he said the "rate of achievement" of the defense program is giving his party "considerable concern" and that the naval program has "slipped badly."

Mr. Claxton said it is possible for the Atlantic Pact powers to "moderate" their efforts but that any fundamental change in their drive to build up Western strength would be dangerous.

He said the defense department has largely completed stockpiling of "soft goods"—personal items such as boots, uniforms, forks, neckties—and predicted that the goals for "hard goods"—guns, tanks, ammunition—will be met "except in so far as we stretch out our program" to maintain productive capacity.

"I believe," he said, "that will prove desirable."

Such a step would allow productive facilities to be kept going. The alternative would be to keep producing until stockpiling requirements were met and then shut down.

Gen. Pearkes said the results of the $5,500,000 defense program in actual fighting men and materials were "meagre and in no way proportionate" to the large sums voted for rearmament.

Milk Price Reduction By May 1 Unlikely

The provincial government has temporarily set aside its plan to remove milk controls above the producer level on May 1, according to an official of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association.

The spokesman for the association said he had been informed today that the government intended to give the matter further study before carrying out its plans to remove the controls.

"It is unlikely that any action will be taken to remove the controls until after the provincial elections," he said. "This was indicated to me today by government officials."

This means that Safeway and other chain stores will not be able to reduce the price of milk by one or two cents, he said. "They cannot do anything until the price is decontrolled by the government."

Several other dairymen in the Victoria area said they did not expect the government to decontrol the price of milk.

Police Investigate Ontario Burnings

CHATHAM, Ont. (BUP) — Police are investigating the mysterious burning of a home in the Negro village of North Buxton, 10 miles southwest of Chatham. Police also are watching two more homes that may be "marked" for destruction.

The investigation was started after a delegation from the predominantly Negro village told police a home was set afire Saturday night after a crude wooden cross was erected in front of the house and set aflame.

Two other homes in the village have had similar fiery crosses placed in front of them. The crosses are a mark of anti-Negro or Ku Klux Klan activity in some parts of the United States.

The house destroyed last Saturday was empty of its two families. The owner, Mrs. Cecile Rhue, says she can't understand how the fire could start accidentally because no stove was lighted and the house is not equipped with electrical wiring.

COMMONWEALTH BACK IN ACTION

Bitter Hand-to-Hand Fighting As British Troops Flee Red Trap

WESTERN FRONT (BUP)—A British Commonwealth Division patrol battled its way out of a Communist trap early today carrying its wounded and dead.

The fierce, one-hour grenade and rifle battle was the biggest action the Commonwealth unit has faced since it returned to the western front April 6 after two months in reserve for rest and training.

Return of the Commonwealth division to the front was announced today.

The outnumbered patrol, drawn from the First Battalion of the King's Regiment (Liverpool) was encircled by nearly 50 Chinese at 3 a.m.

During the close battle, the wounded patrol leader yelled to his radio operator to signal for artillery support. But his radio man was helpless, bleeding from his own wounds.

The officer told his men to charge out of the encirclement in a desperate bid to save the patrol from destruction.

A corporal, a finger blown off by a grenade, fought his way out while helping a wounded buddy. When he reached safety the corporal pulled off his armored vest, only to find another wound in his chest.

One Commonwealth soldier was knocked unconscious by a grenade. When he came to, a Chinese was bent over him.

But just as the Communist started to slip off the wounded man's armored vest, a Red officer called him away.

One British soldier fired several hundred bullets from his machine gun until a Chinese grenade exploded in front of him, ripping the gun barrel to pieces.

The British Commonwealth Division had been in the line continuously since it was formed, the first unit of its kind in British history, in August, 1951.
